U. S. Pilot Sinks Sub Off Brazil

DIVES TWICE TO BAG AXIS CRAFT AT SEA

Brazilians Told How American Flier Bombs U-Boat After Five Sinkings.

REPUBLIC NEAR WAR

RAF Reported in Second Raid on Undersea Ship Off South America.

BULLETIN

RIO DE JANEIRO—(INS)—Three more Axis submarines have been sighted and possibly attacked by Brazilian patrols off the coast of Bahia, it was reported in Rio De Janeiro today.

(By Associated Press)

RIO DE JANEIRO—A United States pilot bombed and sank one of the Axis submarines lurking off the Brazilian coast after the sinking of five Brazilian ships brought this biggest South American republic to the "gates of war," an official announced today.

The first official word of the sinking came from Commander Ernani A R Amaral Peixoto, federal liaison officer in the state of Rio de Janeiro, who told a crowd gathered before the presidential palace that one of the undersea raiders had been destroyed.

Government press department and other accounts in Brazilian newspapers gave this version of the attack

The submarine was sighted 50 miles off Brazil's coast by a United States plane piloted by Capt. Jack Lacey The plane dived, machine-gunning the submarine and forcing it to the surface with bombs when it attempted to submerge.

The Diario Carioca, quoting authorized sources, said the submarine apparently was damaged in this first attack. The United States plane dived again, this time finishing the submarine with direct bomb hits.

At the same time, radio reports purportedly from British Guiana

FDR Tells Stimson To Take Over Plant After Dispute.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt ordered Secretary of War Stimson today to take possession of and operate the plant of the S. A. Woods Machine company at South Boston Mass., where a management-labor dispute has impeded war production

The war labor board laid the case before him yesterday for appropriate action.

The company management had refused to comply with a board order that it grant arbitration and maintenance of union membership privileges to the CIO's United Electrical, Radio and Machine workers.

The plant has orders for production important to the war effort.

G. O. P. ELECTS CARROLL AGAIN

Republican Committee Holds Organization Meeting; Picks Executive Group.

Richland county Republicans laid groundwork for their fall campaign last night when the newly elected precinct central committee members unanimously re-elected Ralph Carroll as county chairman and set up a 35-member county executive committee to direct the campaign.

The party's four candidates for county offices and state representative appeared before the committee at the courthouse to ask for the organization's support. About 50 of the approximately 90 committee members attended the session.

Also elected unanimously were City Councilman Clifford G Knarr, vice chairman, and Mrs. Elizabeth Grubaugh, secretary. Carroll, county juvenile officer, lives in Shelby and has headed the central committee two years.

Atliss F. Porter and Archie May, both of Mansfield, were nominated for central committee chairman, but they withdrew immediately in favor of Carroll

Although a three-member committee named last night by Carroll set up an executive committee of 35 members, four more than during the past two years, only 30 members were appointed Ralph Hardy, executive chairman, said the vacancies would be filled later.

Only five new members were chosen among the 30 appointed

Tax Collection For Single Day At 10-Year High

Tuesday's real estate tax collections for the first half-year set an eight-year record high of $100,133, according to announcement today by County Treasurer Charles C. Payne.

The record—highest since the 10-mill tax limitation law went into effect in 1934—was due largely to receipt of taxes from several large concerns.

Collections, up to yesterday, were $527,745 and Payne is confident that the $600,000 half-year charges will be met by the time the books are closed at 4 p. m. Thursday.

LAB WRECKED

Fireman Burned As Three Blasts Hit Ohio Plant.

CINCINNATI — (UP)—Three explosions wrecked a concrete block production laboratory at the William S. Merrell company, manufacturing pharmacists, near Reading, early today

One fireman was burned on the arm when the third explosion scattered the flames. Firemen used gas masks because of sulphuric acid fumes The company has been filing medical orders for the government.

SINKS JAP SHIP

U. S. Sub Attacks Enemy 'Cruiser or Destroyer.'

WASHINGTON—(UP)—A U. S. submarine has sunk a Japanese cruiser or destroyer in the western Aleutian area—bringing to 23 the number of Japanese ships sunk or damaged in that area—the navy announced today.

Fog prevented "an exact identification of the type of ship," the communique said. This was the ninth warship hit by U. S. submarines alone in that area since the Japanese moved in there in June.

The submarines, penetrating to the Japanese bases under cover of the fog which usually hampers air and surface operation, already had sunk six destroyers, were believed to have sunk another destroyer and left another "burning fiercely."

TWO BRITISH WARSHIPS SUNK

Admiralty Reveals Loss of Cruiser and Destroyer In Convoy Battle.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON — The anti-aircraft cruiser Cairo and the destroyer Foresight were sunk during the recent convoy operations in the Mediterranean the admiralty announced today

Previously the admiralty had announced the sinking of the aircraft carrier Eagle and the cruiser Manchester. The four ships were the total warship losses for the British in the extensive convoy operations to supply and reinforce Malta, the admiralty said.

The communique said the admiralty would not divulge the number of ships in the convoy or the number of ships which arrived at Malta.

The Cairo, completed in 1919, was an old 4,200-ton cruiser which had been rearmed in 1939 for anti-aircraft duty. She carried a normal crew of 400 men.

The Foresight, completed in 1935, was a 1,350-ton destroyer capable of better than 36 knots.

The admiralty said it was natural that in such a hazardous operation "some losses were suffered in the convoy."

The communique said that at least 66 Axis aircraft were certainly destroyed during the fight over the convoy.

The British lost eight aircraft, but four of the pilots were saved.

EVADER HELD

Ohioan Charged With Violation of Selective Service Act.

TOLEDO — (UP) — Raymond W Sadoski, 22, of Fremont, was held to the federal grand jury under $7,500 bond today on charge of violating the Selective Service act

Sadoski, who was accused of failing to report for induction in Sandusky county July 29, testified before U. S Commissioner Morton Neipp that he was a member of Jehovah's Witnesses.

4 Cars Get Flats From Nails Scattered Over Country Road

Sheriff Frank E. Robinson and his deputies today were looking for the vandals who scattered quantities of roofing nails along the stretch of road which links U. S. route 30-S with Home road, west of Mansfeild, causing at least four motorists to have flat tires.

Deputy Sheriff G. C. Humphrey, called first to investigate reports of too many "flats" on the same road, said the nails apparently were scattered over the county road Monday night

Persons living along the road joined yesterday and today in collecting the nails and more than a quart had been picked up this morning. Humphrey said most of the nails, which were about an inch long and coated with anti-rust material, were scattered in the tire tracks in the road.

First report of a flat tire was turned in by John C Friday, former county commissioner, who had to drive over the section of road to reach U. S. route 30-S. Other motorists followed him with reports that their tires had been punctured by the nails.

Sheriff Robinson said it was possible that a group of boys had committeed the act as a prank, thinking they would get fun out of hearing the tires go flat. Juvenile Officer Ralph Carroll was called into the investigation by the sheriff.

CITY RESPONDS AS DRIVE FOR SCRAP STARTS

Calls Sent To 3763-6 Bring Collectors: Legion Cannon Being Cut Up.

Mansfield responded promptly today as the War Production board's scrap drive opened in the city, with the county salvage committee receiving a number of calls to pick up scrap steel and rubber and other city residents turning in their scrap to dealers, Salvage Chairman Carl L Stough said.

As the drive got under way, workmen used torches to reduce the big gun on the lawn at the American Legion home to pieces that could be handled easily.

The 105 mm German gun which has stood for years on the Legion home lawn, is the first huge piece of scrap metal to be donated by a patriotic organization in the county. Other ornamental guns in Bellville will be removed next week, Stough said

Two big bins to receive scrap materials were set up yesterday afternoon at the west side of Central park. One is for scrap metal of all kinds and the other for rubber, burlap, rags, and rope.

Stough emphasized again that paper should not be thrown into the bins because of the fire hazard it creates Old newspapers, books, and magazines will be picked up by the Volunteers of America, Salvation Army, and Boy Scouts if they are notified, he said.

The salvage chairman also urged city residents not to throw tin cans into the scrap bins. No provision has been made this time for using them, he said.

Ohio Draft Heads Say Family Men Not Needed Now.

COLUMBUS— (UP) Officials of the Ohio Selective Service headquarters said today that they do not anticipate any need "in the near future" for inducting married men with bona fide family relationships.

Chief Draft Inspector Ed Neese said that no boards in the state have requested authority to reclassify men living with their wives, who were married before Dec. 8, 1941, or at a time when induction was not imminent.

He made the statement when questioned about the assertion yesterday of a spokesman for Brig. Gen Lewis B. Hershey, national draft director, who predicted a general draft of married men under 46 with dependents "in the not far distant future"

BLACKLIST 134

OPA Officials Bar Ohio Speeders From Getting Tires.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Supt Lynn Black of the state highway patrol said today 134 Ohio motorists had been "black-listed" for new tires during the first five days of the patrol's campaign to conserve rubber

The patrol obtains the identity of anyone driving more than 40 miles an hour and the names are turned over to the office of price administration. Any persons "blacklisted" will be denied new tires or re-caps if and when they again are offered the public.

U. S. Aircraft Aid as Battle Continues To Rage In Greatest Thrust at Europe Since Dunkirk; Yanks 'Rangers' In Stiff Combat.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(AP)—First units of the Allied commandos who smashed at the French coast returned to a British base in gay spirits this afternoon.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(AP)—United States flying fortresses raided a German fighter plane base at Abbeville today during the landing raid operations at Dieppe, United States Army headquarters announced. A communique said bomb bursts were seen on the target area, and all the big four-motor planes returned safely. Two squadrons of the giant bombers took part in the attack. They were supported by RAF and RCAF fighters.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(AP)—Fighting in the Dieppe raid was still going strong at 3:30 p. m. (10:30 a. m., EWT). Waves of Allied planes continued to roar across the channel.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON — United States troops landed on the French coast before dawn today with British, Canadian and fighting French Allies and are now engaged in heavy combat with the Germans around Dieppe in the war's greatest commando raid, in which tanks and heavy weapons are being used to smash and prod at the Nazis' vaunted anti-invasion defenses.

Overhead the United States army air forces, with both bombers and fighters, and the RAF and the Royal Canadian Air Force, maintained a stout umbrella of protection for the men on the ground against bitter German air opposition.

Hour after hour the battle progressed, with the rumble of heavy gunfire and the constant roar of planes as audible testimony to the scope of the conflict on which Allied headquarters issued terse periodic communiques.

Canadians made up the majority of the strong forces that drove across the channel to Dieppe, 50-odd miles from Beachy Head, the nearest point in England, and 100 miles from Paris

Announcements from United States Army and Allied combined operations headquarters disclosed that the Americans, British special service troops and the Fighting French all were in action.

The Americans, specially chosen from a host of volunteers as the first American fighting men to set foot on the continent of an embattled Europe since 1917, proudly wore the title "Rangers"—after the famous Rogers' Rangers whose

BOLSTERED: Nazis Pour New Troops Into Stalingrad Drive

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW—The Germans poured strong reserves today into the Don bend and Caucasus battles from south of Voronezh to the high plains of Pyatigorsk and the bolstered onslaught presaged a full-scale drive against Stalingrad and along the Baku rail line to the shores of the Caspian.

The Russians were fighting back fiercely. A communique declared that the Nazis' gains since May 15 had cost 1,250,000 casualties—twice those of Russia—and that Adolf Hitler was draining western Europe of the new fighting men required in the east.

The Russians fell back in the Don bend where their counter-offensive appeared spent, and gave ground in the region of Pyatigorsk, 170 miles southeast of the destroyed and abandoned Maikop oil fields.

The Nazi drive down the Rostov-Baku rail line across the Caucasus had as its next apparent objective beyond Pyatigorsk and Mineralyne Vody, the rail junction town of Georgievsk.

TASK: U. S. Facing Mop-Up of Land, Sea Forces In Solomons

(By Associated Press)

GEN. M'ARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia—The final expulsion of Japan from the Solomon islands apparently rested today on the completion of two tedious difficult jobs—the mop-up ashore where the United States Marines have landed and the consolidation of naval mastery in that South Pacific zone

This still was a triple-header operation of major magnitude, involving land, sea and air forces, but every indication in the absence of official facts and figures pointed to accumulating successes.

For one thing, the Japanese radio has begun changing its story on the battle and the only reference to it in the latest Tokyo broadcasts was a commentator's warning that the United States onslaught might lead to further attacks on Japanese-held territory "or even on Japan herself."

A report to Auckland from a New Zealand correspondent somewhere in the South Pacific said the United States had won "sufficient successes" at sea to reinforce and supply the assault troops for what may be weeks or months of "extremely bitter" fighting in the islands.

"Japanese units which were in the Solomons at the opening of operations either have been sunk or have fled to the Caroline islands," said this dispatch to the New Zealand Press association.

American naval forces were reported deployed in anticipation of a showdown battle with the Japanese for the seaways vital to holding, or broadening, the wedge already dug into the enemy's network of advance island bases.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

(Note: Walt Disney, who created Mickey Mouse and Snow White, is now an important figure in America's war effort. Sliding into the swivel chair at my desk today, he tells you what he is doing.—D. K.)

Walt Disney Says—

In times of war the imagination of men in every field—science, medicine, manufacture, education, entertainment—is stressed to the limit by the demands of the exigencies.

Those of us who can look back to the days before the first World War realize that this great holacaust was directly responsible for developments beyond dreams in every sphere bearing on human existence.

The airplane, automobile, medicine, electrification of virtually every area of the country; and yes, the motion picture of today, can trace their present high status to developments arising out of the last war. The talking picture was an offshoot of experiments conducted for war purposes strictly.

What this present conflagration will bring to humanity as a small compensation measure for the horror and destruction that is being and will be wrought throughout the world before it ends, few of us can foresee.

But speaking for the one field which I feel definitely qualified to comment on, I fully believe the animated picture will emerge as one of the greatest mediums not only of entertainment but also of education.

In fact, from the realm of fantasy the animated picture already is heading for its definitely assured place in the spotlight of education. We have talked visual education for years. We have tried it in a small degree. But the government has been quick to seize on the motion picture for the training of its armed men; for conveying the story of the greatness and facilities of America to our allied nations and friends; and to carry the story of our own people of just what is confronting them, and what is to be expected of them in the winning of this war, upon which our entire form of existence rests.

And I am happy that even more of its share of this task is being carried on through the medium of animated pictures. Our own studio, for example, is devoting nearly three quarters of its facilities to pictures for the armed services, Department of Agriculture, Public Health service, the office of Coordinator for Inter-American affairs and other governmental agencies. All of these pictures come under the heading of education and are being produced at cost.

The motion picture will never fully replace the printed word, but it will go a long way. I am prepared to predict, in becoming its most valuable adjunct. There seems little question that the human mind will absorb picturized information much quicker than by means of the printed word.

A few years ago it would have been virtually impossible for us to attempt any such program. Cost would have been a primary stumbling block, and in a smaller measure the limitations of our medium would have stumped us. The animated picture of today however is limited to no horizon. The imagination and abilities of the people working in the medium are the only limitations.

In recent years the animated picture field had drawn the finest artists and the best writers. It seems only yesterday that we dreamed first of "Snow White." It was a gigantic enterprise to us and costly beyond our wildest dream. It was a gamble that paid off in more ways than one.

It proved for the first time to the skeptics that the cartoon medium had a very definite place in the feature motion picture field. But even beyond that it gave us a lot of technical knowledge that paved the way for some of the achievements made possible today in the animated picture world.

Had we not made "Snow White," I doubt very much if we would have attempted a picture like "Bambi" which taxed the ingenuity of our medium to the limit; nor would we have thought of doing Seversky's "Victory Through Air Power," which we are currently working on.

We have not fully developed our plan of handling the Seversky book just yet. It's dynamite in every foot. We do, however, hope to avoid any political discussion in it. We want to make it strictly entertainment yet at the same time convey faithfully the theories and importance of this aviation sage's viewpoint.

It's a grand story to play with, and a wondeful one to develop in animation. We already are having a lot of fun planning the bombing of Tokyo, only this time I'm afraid it won't be from Shangri-la.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — Brian Donlevy is a fellow who gets around. He gets around to all the studios by design, so that pictures with his face in them will be at plenty of theaters all the time.

Stocky, husky Brian has no illusions about his face, but he figures an actor's face has to be seen to be remembered. He has been that way ever since his first picture.

Coons

He had been on the stage in New York, starting with "What Price Glory?" in the 20's. He had been in many plays that were bought by the movies and played with many actors who were signed by Hollywood, but Donlevy was given a wide berth. He was in "The Milky Way" when Harold Lloyd bought it for pictures. Gladys George and Hugh O'Connell of the play's cast were signed for the movie, but not Donlevy. He got sore and went out on his own.

By the time his few hundred dollars were gone he had met a lot of people who didn't see him as the type. Just before returning to New York he remembered he hadn't seen Bob McIntyre, who was casting director for Goldwyn. "Wait a minute," said Bob. "I may have something for you."

He sent Donlevy to see Director Howard Hawks, who in turn sent him to see Goldwyn. They both gave the high sign, and Brian went to the wardrobe department for a costume.

That was where Brian thought about his face. The part was a western "heavy." Brian selected garments: Black pants, black boots, black shirt, black belt, black tie, black hat—even black gloves. Instead of a flashing silver pistol he picked a small black derringer—to carry in his back pocket. Hawks made him skip the gloves (whereupon he hid his hands), but his face stood out in "Barbary Coast" like a beacon in a blackout.

He was "in." Three years at 20th Century-Fox learning about the movies in B pictures, then moved up. "Jesse James," "Union Pacific," "Beau Geste," "The Great McGinty," "Wake Island" and the current "Clear for Action" are just a few of the films that have kept him busy.

Donlevy began getting around early. From Ireland, where he was born, to Sheboygan Falls, Wis., where as a boy he staged Saturday stage shows at movie houses. His next stop was Annapolis, and more amateur theatricals. When the world disarmed many naval academy students resigned, Brian among them. He headed for Broadway, invited by an artist to whom he had written a fan letter.

While he tried to crash the stage, the artist J. C. Leyendecker gave him a job as gardener, handy man, and model. The Donlevy face appeared on many Saturday Evening Post covers — as handsome collar-ad types, as Santa Claus, as . . .

"And I hate to admit this," says the burly he-man actor, "but once I was on the cover as Cleopatra!"

NEW DEALERS STAND PAT FOR MEAD IN RACE

New York Convention Fight Certain; Farley Declines FDR Compromise.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK — The state Democratic convention opens today with a floor fight over the party's gubernatorial nomination assured on the basis of the refusal of New Deal forces to withdraw their man and State Chairman James A. Farley's refusal to accept a compromise suggested by President Roosevelt.

Farley was confident that he had enough delegates sewed up to assure the nomination of Attorney General John J. Bennett, jr. Mr. Roosevelt has backed Senator James M. Mead and late last night, after Mead forces had refused to withdraw their man in the interest of party harmony, Farley revealed that he had received a letter from the president suggesting a compromise also in the interest of party harmony. Formal nominations will be tomorrow.

Though Farley did not make the president's communication public, it was learned on reliable authority that the president had suggested that both Bennett and Mead withdraw in favor of a candidate acceptable to both factions. Farley said the president had "offered several recommendations to bring about harmony and prevent a floor fight." He said the president had not suggested a compromise candidate or candidates.

The president's plan was placed before Farley and 26 other party leaders last night by retiring Governor Herbert H. Lehman, who also supports Mead.

Mr. Roosevelt, it was said, told the leaders that Bennett was "a good man" but did not have Mead's vote-getting power. He said that if Bennett was designated he would vote for him but would not take an active part in his campaign.

While the immediate stake was the gubernatorial nomination, it was becoming more and more evident that the fight was a struggle between Mr. Roosevelt and Farley for control of the party in New York and the 94 delegates it will send to the national convention in 1944.

Farley, who broke with the president over the third term, apparently held the edge. He claimed 650 oft the 1014 convention delegates, a majority, and the willingness of Mead's backers to accept a compromise was interpreted as a sign of weakness.

BRICKER WILL LIMIT CAMPAIGN

Announces He'll Make 'Few Talks' in Drive To Start Oct. 1.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS— Governor Bricker's personal campaign for re-election will be greatly curtailed this year due to the war, he disclosed today.

"The campaign necessarily this year will have to be conducted in a different way," the governor said. "The war program has doubled the work in the governor's office and time will not be available for a personal campaign in all sections of the state."

However, Bricker indicated he would make "a few talks" to present the issues of the campaign clearly to the people, "but the conservation of gasoline and rubber will make impossible extensive traveling."

The governor said that Don Power, his secretary, will manage his campaign and that he will request the Republican state central committee to vest the power of running the campaign in a committee similar to that employed in 1940.

Campaign headquarters will be opened not later than Sept. 15 with the active campaign beginning about Oct. 1 at which time a convention will convene to draft the party platform, the governor's announcement said.

Meanwhile, Highway Director Hal G. Sours ordered removal of all roadside political signs and posters and requested candidates to refrain from erecting them on highway property hereafter.

"They are not only eyesores but are also posted in direct violation of our laws," Sours said.

SALZEDO ENSEMBLE TO OPEN CIVIC MUSIC SERIES OCT. 26

Mansfield's Civic Music concert season that brings four stellar musical attractions to the city in 1942-43 including Paul Robeson, world famous colored baritone, will open with the Salzedo ensemble Monday night, Oct. 26.

Dates for the four concerts that will be heard by at least 1,000 season ticket holders at each performance were announced today by Albert Arnold, president of the Civic Music association, after approving the schedule suggested by the New York office.

All concerts this year will be held at John Simpson Junior auditorium as a means of facilitating transportation and, as, heretofore, will be limited to season ticket holders. No single admission tickets will be available.

The Salzedo ensemble, composed of two harps, a flute and a cello, will be followed Thursday, Dec. 10, by Blanche Thebom, one of the country's leading mezzo-sopranos and a native Ohioan. Miss Thebom is a resident of Canton and her concert tour the past two years were highly successful.

Claude Arrau, the sensational Chilean pianist, will appear Monday, Feb. 15, and Paul Robeson will climax the season Tuesday, April 6. Member of the Chilean diplomatic staff Arrau acts as an "Ambassador of Music," and his concerts have resulted in re-booking throughout the nation.

Robeson, whose fame is worldwide, will be accompanied by Clara Rockwell, Russian theremin specialist. The theremin is an electrically controlled instrument that sounds similar to a cello. It is operated by waving the hands between two small antennae that creates a stream of sound.

BOY KILLED IN CADDY ARGUMENT

Youth Admits He Swung Golf Club at Companion.

MT. CLEMENS, Mich. —(INS)— Fourteen-year-old Charles Copp was dead today of a fractured skull, which according to deputy sheriffs was admittedly inflicted by a golf club in the hands of his friend and fellow caddy in an argument on the 11th green at the Hillcrest golf course.

"I gave him just what he deserved," James Giokas, 13, was quoted by MaComb county deputies as saying after he was questioned by Prosecutor Herman Brys.

The fatal fray is said to have been of an early argument between the two boys who were caddying for a four-some.

Giokas was released in the custody of his father pending appearance in juvenile court. No charges were immediately filed against the boy.

BROTHERS DROWN

Companion Fails In Rescue Attempt After Raft Overturns.

CINCINNATI—(U.P.)—Paul Burnham, 9, and his brother, Rue, 12, drowned yesterday when their raft overturned on the Little Miami river. Neither of the boys could swim.

Flach Douglas, who was with them, tried to tow them out of the river, but they fought him off. Boy Scouts from Camp Friedlander brought them out after they had been in the water 20 minutes.

SHOT TO DEATH

GALLIPOLIS —(AP)— Gilbert Davis, 38, was shot to death with a .22 caliber rifle yesterday and police held a neighbor for questioning.

FUNERAL SET

Rites For Edward Cromer, 75, To Be Held Thursday.

Funeral services for Edward Cromer, 75, who died at the Richland County Home in Weller township Monday afternoon, will be held at the Finefrock funeral home Thursday at 10:30 a. m.

Rev. James Ellington, supply pastor at the Pilgrim church, will officiate. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

BOY INJURED IN BIKE FALL

Loudonville Youngster Hurt, Taken to Hospital Here.

Picked up unconscious after a fall from his bicycle as he was crossing a railroad track in Loudonville last night, Walter Shearer, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Shearer, Loudonville rural residents, was on the road to recovery today with only a few bruises to remind him of the accident.

The lad was brought to Mansfield General hospital after he was discovered lying unconscious near the railroad tracks. He regained consciousness in a half-hour and was returned to his home this afternoon.

Young Shearer is a carrier for the Wooster Record and is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. James Shearer at Loudonville.

"This is a test of self-control. You're to walk past the mirror, keeping eyes straight ahead!"

Three Chicago boys yesterday reversed the usual rule of going west to be cowboys. Today they are back at their respective parental hearths bemoaning their abbreviated thrust at the eastern front. Mansfield police were asked early Tuesday by Chicago authorities to search eastbound buses for the trio. After several hours' vigil reward came to local officers when they apprehended the trio after they were "de-bussed" at the station here. Early today the father of one of them arrived from Chicago to assume command of the trio.

There's a new Holstein calf on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Harry McCammon near Little Washington, that survived the first two weeks of its life without a mother and with what food it could find, and it ought to be able to hold its own from now on without much trouble. Two weeks ago, before the calf was born, the cow wandered away and the McCammoins looked for her in vain. Last week she was found dead in a field, obviously from eating too much young corn. She had been dead several days. There was no calf in sight. Yesterday a frisky calf was captured on the farm by the McCammons' son who had to chase it a long distance and then make a flying tackle to bring it down. The McCammons believe the calf was born shortly after the cow disappeared and has been able to survive in the farm "wilds."

The United States government is calling upon the young women of this area to help "keep 'em flying" by learning to work as mechanics at Wright Field, Dayton, or Patterson Field at Fairfield. "Those accepted will get their opportunity to help stop Hitler by being assigned to the Army Air forces in a learner capacity under the supervision of trained mechanics," according to G. H. Hoover, secretary of the Civil Service commission in the Mansfield postoffice building. Work is open in engine repair, airplane repair, machine shop, wood shop, propeller shop, instruments and parachute.

ILLNESS FATAL

Mrs. Susan L. Hartenfels To Be Buried Here Friday.

Mrs. Susan L. Hartenfels, 79, former Mansfield resident, died in St. Vincent's Charity hospital in Cleveland Tuesday at 10 p. m. after a brief illness.

Mrs. Hartenfels, widow of the late Charles L. Hartenfels, had lived in Mansfield the greater part of her life. She was born near Lexington, Aug. 27, 1862, and for the past 10 years had made her home with a daughter, Mrs. Katharine M. Hamilton in Detroit and a son, Carl W. Hartenfels in Shaker Heights.

Surviving with the son and daughter are a grandson, Douglas Hamilton of Detroit, and a brother, Philip Fox of Lexington.

The body will be brought to Mansfield for funeral services at the Finefrock funeral home Friday at 10 a .m. Rev. David N. Roller, pastor of First Presbyterian church, to which Mrs. Hartenfels belonged, will officiate. Burial will be made in the Mansfield cemetery.

EXCHANGE SURPRISE

ELYRIA —(U.P.)— Seaman (first class) Robert Reese got a short leave from the navy and came home to surprise his family, but he got a big surprise himself. His brother, Corp Thomas L. Reese, an army flying school instructor, had arrived home a few hours earlier on a 10-day furlough.

WOMAN'S BODY FOUND IN CAR OF SLAIN MAN

Policeman, Negro Killed In Elyria Gun Battle After Traffic Crash.

(By Associated Press)

ELYRIA—The sordid death of a young white woman—revealed by a gun battle that killed an Elyria rookie policeman and a negro police character—was linked today with Cleveland's recent "jitterbug" vice cases.

The nude body of Doris McConnell, 22-year-old Clevelander, was found stuffed in the trunk compartment of a coupe whose owner, Nathaniel Spuriel of Cleveland, was slain last night after fatally wounding Patrolman Howard Taft, 29. Their exchange of shots resulted from a minor traffic accident.

Coroner S. C. Ward of Lorain county said the woman had been beaten to death.

Spuriel, 39-year-old negro who formerly operated a Cleveland night club, was one of 12 men sentenced last April in the "jitterbug" vice cases, so-called because the girls involved were white juvenile habituees of night clubs.

He served two days of a nine-month sentence, then was released because of an appeal from the conviction. On June 9 he and Miss McConnell were arrested along with another white woman, identified as Spuriel's wife, on charges of occupying and operating a vice resort. The cases were to have been heard next Friday.

The Cleveland vice figure opened fire on Patrolman Taft as he was being taken to police headquarters here last night after his car was involved in a collision with another operated by an Elyria woman.

Patrolman Don Andress, who was being taken to his home by Taft when the latter was directed to investigate the collision, gave this account of the shootings:

Taft started to drive Spuriel's car to police headquarters, with Spuriel beside him, while Andress followed in the police cruiser. After driving a short way, Taft stopped to straighten a fender damaged in the collision, Spuriel also got out and took the ignition key.

Refusing at first to surrender the key, Spuriel then walked to the car as if to get in, but pulled a .45 caliber revolver from the automobile and fired three shots into Taft's chest and stomach. Falling to the street, Taft returned fire, emptying all six chambers of his service revolver.

Andress, unarmed, ran to the grab him from behind. One shot fired at Andress missed, and the negro was killed outright by Taft's bullets. Andress then took Taft to the hospital where he died an hour and a half later.

The slain patrolman, married and the father of one child, had been a member of the police department since last Nov. 15.

Discovery of Miss McConnell's body was made after Spuriel's car was taken to police headquarters. Coroner Ward said death resulted from a brain hemmorrhage caused by a severe beating.

Singing Telegrams Being Ruled Out For the Duration

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— Singing telegrams and fixed text and rate holiday and social telegrams soon are being ruled out for the duration.

Both the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies filed revised tariff schedules with the federal communications commission. Unless it disapproves, no such messages will be sent after Sept. 18.

The companies explained that they wanted to prevent interference with the handling of growing war traffic. Birthday and social greetings may still be sent, but full commercial rates will have to be paid. Singing telegrams cannot be had after Sept. 18 at any price.

Special rate, fixed text messages to and from American forces abroad will be continued, however.

TAKEN BY DEATH

George M. Myers, 70, Succumbs At Home In Plymouth.

PLYMOUTH — George Melvin Myers, 70, died at his home here last night after a year's illness.

He was born March 16, 1872 in Seneca county but had lived in Plymouth most of his life.

He is survived by two sons, Kenneth and Haldon, both at home; and five sisters and seven brothers.

Funeral services are to be held at the Miller-McQuate funeral home at 2 p. m. Friday with Rev. H. L. Bethel officiating. Burial will be in Greenlawn cemetery.

BODY EXPECTED

MILLERSBURG—The body of Raymond W. Carrillon, one of the nine killed in the airplane crash Aug. 15, seven miles south of Hastings, Mich., will be brought back to Millersburg and taken to the Elliott funeral parlor, where funeral arrangements will be made.

U. S. FORCES IN HEAVY RAID ON CHANNEL COAST

Join British and Canadians In Tank Supported Attack on Nazi Gun Post.

bold exploits made history in the French and Indian war of American colonial days 180 years ago.

First announced fruits of the raid were destruction of a six-gun German battery and an ammunition dump by troops who landed on the right flank, accomplished their mission and were reembarked by the British navy, which ferried all the forces across to France.

On the left flank the Canadians first were repulsed by strong German opposition, but bounded back to carry the beach by assault while their comrades were pushing tanks ashore in the center for the main thrust, which a noon announcement said still was continuing.

The landings were accomplished at every point selected in advance in a carefully-planned, closely secret operation that American officers of all services helped to arrange.

Eagerness to call this a second front, a real invasion, was cooled by repeated BBC broadcasts stressing the "limited and temporary" character of the action and declaring "it had nothing to do with military decisions which have been taken in Moscow recently."

The Germans, however, made no attempt to belittle the scope of the assault, and claimed they had thrown even their naval forces into the bitter conflict.

For the Canadians, thirsting for a fight for months or years, it was the first real action against the enemy.

For the Fighting French, whose commando organization was disclosed only on Bastille day last July 14, it was the first time they have set foot on the soil of their native land since the German conquest of 1940.

Observers on the British shore said there were more aircraft than ever before seen and heard over the channel, as bombers and fighters shuttled across to assault or reload. Indicating the size of the present operation, it was recalled on at least one previous occasion 1,000 fighters participated in a sweep across the channel.

The raid, first announced at 6 45 a m. (1.45 a m, Eastern War Time,) was still continuing at noon, when a supplementary communique was issued.

After that, as the mists burned away and a fine, fair day developed, persons on the British shore still could hear the heartening sounds of offensive battle.

Informed quarters cautioned, however, that for all the broad participation of troops, tanks, naval guns and planes, the raiding forces would be withdrawn when they had achieved their objectives. This was not a second front.

Their objectives obviously were extensive, since it was the first time landing parties had used tanks.

The objectives appeared to be these: To test the enemy's defense organization and to test the Allied plans for landing and the RAF ability to cover a big landing force.

Additionally, it was bound to disclose disposition of German troops and equipment in the cross-channel area that once was a vacation resort but now is a nest of Nazi fortifications.

The British radio urgently warned the French public that the raid —strongest of the numerous commando smashes up and down the coasts of Nazi-ruled Europe since March, 1941—was not an invasion.

The French were cautioned not to rise in support of the Allies until they should be given the word, lest there be a repetition of the tragic St. Nazaire battle, in which French patriots battled the Nazis for days after British commandos had withdrawn and drew stern reprisals from the Germans.

The American Rangers, said a United States army bulletin, were "specially selected task troops" chosen "front among an avalanche of volunteers" for commando training in the British isles.

United States officers, it was announced, are "serving as planners and advisers alongside officers of the British navy, army and Royal Airforce" on the staff of Lord Louis Mountbatten, supreme chief of the commandos.

These American officers include:

Brig. Gen. L. K. Truscott, jr., army of Charlottesville, Va.; Commander E. B. Strauss, navy, of Washington, D. C.; Lieut. Col. H. D. Campbell, marines, of Vermont; Lieut. Col. Loren B Hillsinger, army air forces, Washington, D. C.; Major T. J Conway, army, of San Francisco; Major P. M. Hamilton, army air forces, of New York; Major J. B. Lawrence, army, of Los Angeles; Capt. G. W. Embury, army, of Milwaukee; and Lieut. Douglas Fairbanks, navy, of Los Angeles.

Although Canadians made up the majority of the commando force, the fact that Canadians were participating was known at first only to the highest authorities.

The Canadians, after participating in great attack maneuvers, left for the Dieppe raid on Aug. 17, taking their tanks with them.

Landings were made at several selected points in the early darkness of this morning, and the first announcement from headquarters of combined operations (the British term for commando work) was issued at 6:45 a. m. (1:45 a. m., eastern war time.)

The latter announcement at noon said heavy fighting still was in progress.

The Royal Canadian Air Force joined with the RAF in battling strong German resistance to provide a continual roof of protection over the men on the sea and shore.

The roll and rumble of explosions was audible all morning on the English side of the channel, while a constant roar of planes was heard overhead.

Reuters reported that the Paris radio had been off the air since 8:12 a. m., which it said was extremely unusual.

Both before and after daybreak heavy gunfire was heard by residents of the south coast of England, explosions coming from several parts of the French coast, and at one time there was a long and continuous rumble.

RAF fighters were seen streaking back and forth across the channel after dawn, squadrons heading south to France even as other fliers were returning home.

Dieppe, on the channel coast south of Dover Strait and only about 100 miles northwest of Paris, is regarded by British observers as one of the points along the 700 miles of German-occupied coastline from Holland to Brest where a landing might be attempted in the opening of a second front.

It is within easy range of fighter aircraft based in Great Britain but its small harbor has unloading facilities only for small ships and these facilities are not considered adequate for a swift landing of vast quantities of weapons and supplies such as would be required for a big base for a land offensive.

Dieppe was busy with channel passenger and freight traffic in peace time, cross channel boats running to New Haven, England, 80 miles away.

The Germans have set up long-range coastal batteries there to harass channel shipping and these guns probably received some attention from the commandos. The city is only 88 miles from Rouen where United States fortresses attacked the railway yards Monday.

Following closely on the visit of Prime Minister Churchill to Moscow, the raid undoubtedly gave the German forces in occupied territory jittery invasion fears.

Today's raid was the first announced by the British since the landing in the Boulogne-Le Touquet area June 4 to test the German defenses there. The commandos completed their work in an hour on that occasion.

Dieppe is on the French shore of the English channel, a short distance west of the bottleneck Dover Strait.

A raid on that section of the coast might be aimed at silencing Nazi long-range coastal batteries, a constant menace to shipping through the channel. These recently have been unusually active and their volume of fire has indicated that they have been reinforced.

Now that United States and RAF air forces have launched attacks in greater weight on northern France, a break in the Nazi air raid alarm network would be helpful to the Allied airmen roaring in from the channel coast.

RAF Attacks Nazi Sub Building Center

LONDON—(AP)—Flensburg, the Nazi submarine and shipbuliding center almost on the Danish border, was the chief target of RAF bombers last night, their second night in a row over northern Germany, the air ministry announced today.

A communique said four of the raiders were missing. The weight of the attack was not disclosed.

A few German bombers were over England during the night, dropping bombs in East Anglia.

Berlin broadcasts said Germany also was attacked from the east, where Russian planes were said to have bombed parts of east and west Prussia.

Nazis Say Part of Attackers Wiped Out

LONDON —(INS)— The official German news agency DNB claimed today in a dispatch reported by Reuter's that part of the British force which landed at Dieppe, France, already had been wiped out.

The British commandos, DNB said, attacked on a broad front west and east of Dieppe and directed the assault against both the town and the harbor.

"A final mopping up counter-attack is in progress," DNB said.

"Several transport ships were sunk.

"The British attack was undertaken on a larger scale than previous landings and exceeds the usual proportions of so-called British commando operations. The number of British killed already amounts to some hundreds.

Ohioan Shoots Down German Warplane

LONDON — (U.P.) — Flight Commander Donald J. M. Blakeslee of Fairport Harbor, O., shot down a German Focke-Wulf 190 yesterday when the Third American Eagle squadron of the RAF participated in a series of small scale sweeps, over the French invasion coast, the air ministry said.

The sweeps kept the enemy busy from the Le Havre area to around Dieppe, Abbeville and Ostend.

"We saw a formation of Focke-Wulfs 2,000 feet below us as we were crossing the coasts," Blakeslee said. "We dived on them and one pulled right into my gun sights. I let him have just one short burst of cannon and machine-gun fire and he dived away and crashed into the sea. Just before that happened a colleague of mine saw a Hun pilot bail out."

Chinese Recapture Port of Wenchow

CHUNGKING — (U.P.) — Chinese forces have re-captured the walled city and Port of Wenchow on China's east coast, only 600 airline miles from Japan, a Chinese communique said today.

The communique said that the city of about 100,000 population was taken by storm last Saturday.

Wenchow lies 250 miles south of Shanghai and about 600 miles southwest of Japan's home islands. Japanese Formosa is about 200 miles south of Wenchow.

were heard here saying RAF planes, based on that British South American territory, attacked a second submarine off the northeast coast of South America yesterday, and sighted a third.

These developments came as renewed anti-Axis demonstrations flared in the streets of principal cities throughout the country. Brazil's course could not yet be foretold.

Meanwhile, a naval spokesman said that an Axis surface raider prowling the South Atlantic had been sighted near the Brazilian island of Trindale, 1,000 miles off the coast several days ago.

Throughout the country, in fervent demonstrations, Brazilians called upon the government to avenge the affront to Brazil's honor and the apparent loss of several hundred lives, including those of women and children, in the recent wave of ship losses.

Lieut. Col. Joao Pinto Pacca, speaking for War Minister Gen. Eurico Gaspar Dutra, told one crowd here that the country was at the "gates of war."

Official announcements showed only 185 persons known to be saved of the 836 listed as being aboard the five vessels which were sunk. There was a report, however that several lifeboats with survivors had landed on an isolated beach.

The German and Italian ambassadors and some other Axis diplomats still were in the city, two days after their exchange ship had been scheduled to sail The sailing was cancelled, apparently because of the U-boat attacks.

sell or donate should call county civilian defense headquarters, phone 3763-6, which will report to junk dealers and others who will pick up the scrap at homes, Stough added.

Answering inquiries from a number of persons who wanted to know why there is a huge pile of scrap metal at a Mansfield junk yard when it is needed so badly, Stough explained that the dealer is holding the scrap by agreement with the government and steel mills for a winter metal supply.

Approximately 200 tons of scrap has been collected in the WPB drive in the southern half of Richland county, even before the drive was opened in Mansfield. Five truckers operating in the county rural areas are moving northward in the county, visiting rural homes.

Receipts from the sale of scrap metal or rubber donated to patriotic or charitable organizations will be used to provide Christmas boxes for Richland countians in the armed forces.

WORK RESUMES UNDER GUARD

Army Police Sworn In to Prevent Violence At Louisville Plant.

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—(INS)— With guards sworn in as army airforce auxiliary police to prevent further violence, work on war orders continued today at the Reynolds Metal company plant where an estimated 1,000 workmen left their machines when a union official was discharged.

The guards were sworn in as eight separate skirmishes between pickets and employes who sought to enter the plant were reported. One man was reported slightly injured in one of the battles.

Company officials charged that the walkout was part of a jurisdictional dispute between the C. I. O. and A. F. of L.

DENIES RUMORS

Chief Says Cruisers Not For Water Meter Readers.

Denying emphatically rumors that police cruisers were being used by water meter readers, Police Chief Thomas M. Bell today declared he definitely refuses to permit such suggested interdepartmental exchange.

Indicating that such a program had been presented, Bell said: "there was some such proposition advanced but I've squelched any idea of imperiling public safety by dispatching police radio cruisers to such routine purposes."

Bids recently were received by Service Director Fred B. Wolff for a new service car for the waterworks department but no purchase has been made.

last night. They were Robert Snyder, Jack Davis and Mrs. C. O. Gettings, Mansifeld; L. E. McAulty, Butler, and Thomas Zeigler, Bellville.

Re-appointed were Carroll, George Williams, Charles Swanger and C. S. Stroup, all of Shelby; Ralph Hardy, Madison township; H. E. Hawley, Jackson township; John W. Selby, Madison township; C. L. Shoup, Plymouth township; Newell Smith, Washington township; Glenn Swanger, Shiloh; Probate Judge Stuart H. Cramer, C. J. Anderson, A. B Endly, Dale T. Jessop, Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, Archie May, Earl A. McFarland, Arliss F. Porter, H. H. Schettler, C. K. Smaltz, Charles Sonner, James E. Warrack, J. V. Will, Philip Wolfe, and Mrs. Helen Young, all of Mansfield.

Appointments were made on the recommendation of a committee headed by Porter. Serving with him were Charles Swanger, Shelby, and Archie May.

Introduced by Chairman Carroll were Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, candidate for common pleas judge; John L. Catlett, candidate for state representative; Alden H. Heath, for county auditor, and C. L. Shoup, for county commissioner.

Catlett urged the re-election of the Republican state administration as "a stabilizing influence that is highly necessary in these times."

About 100 members and guests of the Richland County Young Democratic club attended a picnic last night at South park when the club pledged its full support of all of the party's candidates for county, district, and state offices.

Miss Mary Newcomer, club president, was in charge of the meeting. County Clerk Howard Wenning and his staff arranged the program. County candidates were introduced. They included C. L. Mitchell for county commissioner; Ralph Lutz, state representative; Norman L. Wolfe, auditor; and Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston, seeking re-election.

only a few miles beyond the Nazi spearheads.

In the northwestern Caucasus the Russians reported repulsing German attacks in the Krasnodar area 60 miles east of the port of Novorossisk.

Defenders of the Krasnodar region of the western Caucasus routed a German infantry regiment, the bureau said.

While the Germans gained in a Don bend sector, three vain attacks were cited in which they lost four tanks and more than 300 men.

Southwest of Stalingrad, Red army patrols were active overnight and one was credited with the destruction of seven Nazi supply trucks, a searchlight installation and two anti-aircraft guns behind the German lines.

Fighting flamed again on the Bryansk front southwest of Moscow. The information bureau said a Soviet artillery battery repulsed eight attacks, wiped out a river crossing and killed at least 500 Germans.

Midnight reports indicated a resurgence of Nazi effort along both arms of a pincer groping toward Stalingrad and the Volga, while the Red army counter-attacked in the Krasnodar sector and stood off assaults in the Pyatigorsk area of the Caucasus.

Already wedged into Russian positions in one sector of the Don bend front, the Germans massed large formations to strike elsewhere southeast of Kletskaya and forced a Russian unit to retreat, the Soviet information bureau announced.

Air Cooling Units For Your Comfort

A comfortably cool atmosphere is probably never more appreciated than at a funeral service on a hot day when nerves are already overwrought.

So many of the funerals we conduct are held in our funeral home that our air cooling units are a benefit both to patrons and their friends who attend a funeral here.

There is no extra or added charge of any kind for use of our Funeral Home. Nor does funeral service here cost more than you would pay elsewhere.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 19, 1942.

If money grew on trees there are some for whom it would have to be shaken down.

Unheard remark: "We never leave our dog out through the night for fear its barking might keep neighbors awake."

It was Elbert Hubbard who thought to say: "Cultivate only the habits that you are willing should master you"—but this bit of wisdom usually comes tardily.

Vision of Aviation's Future

WHEN imagination is coupled with knowledge of his subject, as in the case of James R. (Bud) Harrington, manager of Mansfield airport and commander of the Civil Air Patrol in this district, forecasts on the future of flying cannot be deemed as fantastic as they might otherwise seem. Here are some of them:

Family planes as common as automobiles, for use by young and old; push-button control of height, speed and destination; all mail and perishable merchandise carried by freight planes, which will be developed to immense size and carrying capacity and will tow equally capacious gliders; east to west coast freight delivery in from four to five hours; railroads relegated to short-haul purposes and air travel more economical and safer than present means of transportation.

Mansfield's airport as the center of community activity, with passenger planes arriving and departing on regular schedule, and freight, express and mail loaded and unloaded in as matter-of-course way as is now done at railroad depots and bus stations.

Don't say "impossible"! That's what's been said so many times in the past when present accomplishments were in an experimental stage—and aviation is now far beyond that.

When Jules Verne was writing about airplanes, submarines and horseless carriages, around sixty or seventy years ago, he was indulging in purely imaginative fiction—but later inventive genius surpassed his weirdest dreams. Edward Bellamy's "Looking Backward," written in 1888, fell far short of foreseeing changes of the next half century.

Maybe it would be better to wait until a few years after the war ends before saying, "Bosh!" after listening to "Bud" Harrington's talk on "What's Ahead In Flying."

Canada Maintains War Stride

CANADA, according to the report of an observer from this side of the border, seems to be standing the war disruption better than might have been expected after more than two years' experience. It is a vast country with much of its population widely scattered in small towns and villages, or on rather lonely farms. It is hard to leave those farms to the women and boys and crops this year have suffered from neglect. Many a wheat field is standing unreaped.

The farm women must have a hard time of it, but there is little complaint. It is something that had to be done. Canada would stand with Britain to the end, even if she herself were not threatened. The bulk of the empire, at least, must be saved.

As for the enlisted men, for large numbers of them it means a chance to see the world, an expansion of their narrow life, better pay than they have been used to in many cases, and an education for them all.

The average Canadian, even though he may read little, seems to know what is going on in the world, and what the war is about, at least as well as the average American, and has perhaps a clearer sense of the issues involved.

Johns Park Annual Festival

CAN IT BE possible that Friday night's annual watermelon festival at Johns park marks the thirty-third year for that enjoyable community get-together!

Seems beyond belief that it's been around a third of a century since residents of the north-west section of Mansfield were making preliminary moves toward development of this delightful recreation spot and were planning the first "watermelon festival," at which—if memory serves—the supply of watermelons ran out long before all would-be patrons had been served.

Then, year after year, the public awaited the Johns park watermelon festival and it eventually developed into the "institution" which it has since remained.

It is gratifying to be told that no less than a half carload of prime melons are now being properly cooled for the Friday night affair, and that there's also to be an abundance of ice cream and cake.

Personal note to the weather man: Nice weather, please, for Friday evening, August 21.

Dutch Queen Reflects Courage

THERE is greatness not only in the Dutch nation, but in the woman who represents it and who now honors this country with her presence and co-operation. Queen Wilhelmina is clear-minded and fearless, with the stubborn courage of her race. She is as eloquent in defense of freedom as any voice this nation has heard lately. Some of her words might well be engraved and hung on the walls of every public building and every home in this country. Her noble address to congress was a model of spirit and diction for that body itself to emulate, and a model of patriotic oratory to be read in our public schools. Two or three passages seem especially memorable.

"Seeing this great democratic assembly," she said, "renewing itself at regular intervals and meeting under self-made rules of law, seems to me a sure guarantee that liberty is forever young and strong and invincible, whereas the autocrat, incapable of rejuvenating himself, is every day nearer his end, his regime doomed to die with him.

"I stand here as the spokesman of my country, not only of those nine million of my compatriots in Europe, but also of some seventy millions in Asia and the Western Hemisphere whom I know to be one with me in the spirit.

"What would be the American answer if an invader tried to cover his systematic pillage with the firing squad, the concentration camp and the abomination of the hostage practice? I doubt not what your answer would be: Resistance, resistance until the end, resistance in every practicable shape or form.

"Those of us who have the inestimable privilege of being free feel that it is our duty towards our enslaved compatriots in East and West to do whatever we can to hasten the day of victory. Democracy is our most precious heritage. We cannot breathe in the sullen atmosphere of despotic rule!"

What willing slave of an autocrat can match that utterance?

Erstwhile football players will probably enjoy commando technique—as there's no penalty for roughness.

THIS IS NOT PATRIOTISM

Argentina's Identification System

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—A public identification system can be utilized oppressively by a government which has that end more or less in view and shapes its operation accordingly.

Adoption of the plan in the United States is suggested as a wartime measure. Straw polls indicate an increasing public sentiment in its favor, no doubt mainly for the reason that the great majority of us ardently believe in the idea of spotting enemy agents and saboteurs as effectively as possible, and interning 'em "for the duration."

Nevertheless there also is formidable objection to it, on the ground that it's a tyrannical sort of procedure—an institution that despotisms naturally are addicted to, but that free peoples just as naturally frown on.

Well, it's true that opressively-run countries, like czarist Russia kept their populations strictly booked, and for no very commendable reasons.

It unquestionably is a handy method for a bad type of officialdom to persecute perfectly good citizens as well as to keep tab on their idea of disloyalists and ordinarily assorted criminals. The regulations' merits depend largely upon the fashion of their application by the folk in charge of them.

The former certainly is open to a certain amount of abuse.

A Convenience.

The latter is an out-and-out convenience.

I have had experience with the compulsory kind in several different old world countries. It never happened to catch me off base, but it always rather fretted me as an infringement on my personal rights, if only slightly so. I felt, indeed, that, as a visiting alien, it behooved me to acquiesce gracefully in local rules. All the same I had my personal opinion that they and modern civilization could not prevail coincidentally.

But, as previously remarked, public identification can be a "service" to the identifyee. I do not believe the public has widely thought of that.

You do not have to register as a resident of the Argentine republic. Maybe you do not have to so register in any of the Latin-American republics, but I will speak for Argentina. Anyway, you did not have to when I hit the area in World War No. 1's days.

Yet you COULD register.

Having done so, you received what was known as a "Cedula de Identidad"—otherwise a "Ticket of Identity."

It governmentally guaranteed whom you were.

Suppose you were traveling around a bit, calling in at various Latin-American cities and occasionally wanting to get a check cashed at one of them. That ticket was conclusive at any bank teller's desk.

As I have said, you did not have to have it.

You wanted it, though.

It contained your photo and your signature and your thumbprint and all the dope concerning you—unmistakably.

To get one you called in at your home town's police department.

Having established your credentials—and they were particular as to that—you got your ticket.

But it took about two weeks to do it. There were a lot of formalities.

Spurs That Jingle

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

D'EVER KNOW the old West . . . the days when the cowboys didn't come out of a drugstore in the Bronx . . . when you saw them looming out of clouds of dust, saddle leather creaking, spurs a-jingling . . . cattle by the hundred mooing all around them?

Back of all the years those sounds and sights still move for me, part of the old West in which I was born and bred. And today they have come sharply alive in this new song all America's humming—

"I've got spurs that jingle . . . Jingle—jangle—jingle!"

Hot stuff, that, for dancing feet. Hot stuff, too hot for discouraged spirits. The sort of hot stuff we need in these hours of bewilderment.

"I've got spurs that jingle" . . . maybe you're remembering as I am, how those dusty spurs really jingled long ago at the round-up . . . what wild gypsy music they set up in your own heart when you heard their clamor . . . how they challenged and renewed you.

You didn't know it then, but those jingling spurs, those creaking saddles, were part of the making of America, they did something to you—something as poignant as the throbbing of drums—the roar of muskets. They lifted you out of the rut—set your heart to beating faster—crashed their way through the clammy clutch of fear which held you bound.

The "Winning of the West" is still there in that song we're humming today. And, though you may not suspect it, it's still there in your heart as we face a new wilderness of black cruelty which must be conquered.

FOR NO MATTER HOW WEAK YOU ARE . . . HOW OBSCURE . . . HOW DISCOURAGED OR DISGUSTED . . . YOU TOO HAVE SPURS THAT JINGLE — JANGLE — JINGLE.

Invisible spurs in your heart which can break any bronco of adversity . . . find their way through any tangled trail of fear.

There is nothing new about those spurs. They were born in you. They jingled faintly in you when you were only a tiny baby, reaching out toward a patch of sunlight, a moving ball, any new adventure. And they have been behind every brave and proud wish or deed in your whole life.

Only you didn't know it—you thought that fear came first in life. Or luck. Or opportunity. You didn't know that you had a power in yourself—spurs on your spirit—which could leap over any handicapping hurdle, out-ride any misfortune. But you have.

Yes, I know. It isn't easy. It wasn't easy either to be a cowboy — sunburned, sweat-galled, tired, thirsty, hungry. There were no busses or street cars waiting around to take the colorful "defense workers" of 1880 to their jobs. They were glorious to behold in their silver-studded saddles, their flaring chaps and jangling spurs—but they paid for that splendor plenty. And it demanded just as much grit from them to ride the range then as it demands from you to hold that range in 1942.

"I've got spurs that jingle—Jingle—jangle—jingle!"

Remember those spurs as you take the trail today. Don't crawl to your job like a beaten worm . . . a Regimented German or a Robot Jap. Ride to it like a free man! Go to it with the music that the other free men made, ringing in your heart—

"You've got spurs that jingle—Jingle—jangle—jingle!"

Then, for petesake, use 'em! Cut out that whimper—shut off that dirge—

"RIDE 'ER, COWBOY—RIDE!

Police department was overburdened with calls asking for the "correct time" after telephone and telegraph companies stopped giving this information.

Fourteen boys were guests at party given by Austin and Paul Corey at Kingwood.

Miss Hazel C. Huston and John C. Ropp were married by Rev. Foster C. Anderson.

Son was born to Dr. and Mrs. D. C. Lavender, 94 East Third street.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry DeYarmon and daughter, of Douglas avenue, left for Arizona where they planned to spend a year.

Who's that boy going down the street? Why, it's Harvey Bailey, just back from Culver.

Party was given for Alford Mercurio, 99 South Foster street, on his fourth birthday anniversary.

TODAY IN HISTORY

This date marks the birthdate, in 1871, of Orville Wright, American aviation pioneer. Brothers Wilbur and Orville made the first flight in the history of the world in which a machine carrying a man had raised itself by its own power into the air in full flight. The entire flight lasted but 12 seconds.

Dionnes' New Home.

The 25-room Georgian mansion which will be the future home of Dionne quintuplets, their parents and their other brothers and sisters, will be completed soon at Callander, Ontario. Then the five little girls will move from their nursery and the rest of the family will come from the shabby home across the road where the quintuplets were born. This will be a family reunion which the guardian government has worked out. The attempt will be to provide a congenial family life. It will be difficult to achieve, that is obvious. Papa Dionne will have a paneled office and there will be a physician's suite in the household and quarters for nurses and servants. The world will wish them all a happy, normal life but it will be one of the most difficult things for the famous children to have.—Toledo Blade.

Moscow Conference on Strategy Increases Confidence In Russia

—By LOUIS F. KEEMLE

WHILE it is useless to speculate on what decisions may have been reached at the unprecedented conference between Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin, one conclusion may justifiably be drawn. A complete understanding exists between the Allied governments and Russia on the conduct of the war.

The Churchill visit to Moscow rounds out the understanding reached when Foreign Commissar Molotov visited London and Washington earlier this summer. The British announcement implied agreement on a mutual grand strategy when it said:

"A number of decisions were reached covering the field of the war against Hitlerite Germany and her associates in Europe."

One thing may be taken for granted, that the Russians expect to continue the war through another winter and are assured of the utmost Allied support. The latter most probably includes a second front, not necessarily this year, but almost certainly by next spring.

After Admiral William H. Standley, United States ambassador to Russia, talked with Molotov last week, he stated Russia is convinced its army will remain intact and that if it loses the north Caucasus, it can stand indefinitely on the Volga or, if necessary in the Ural mountains.

The present rate of Nazi progress does not indicate that the Germans will get beyond the Volga this year, if they get that far.

The Maikop oil fields have fallen and the loss of the larger Grozny fields seems probable. The Germans also are threatening the Black sea ports of Novorissisk and Tuapse. There is no concealing the gravity of the situation, but these victories would not defeat Russia.

THE great Aku field on the Caspian still remain. Their loss would be a terrific blow, but it is far from certain that the Germans can get that far this year. Even if they did, the Russians almost certainly have enough oil stored up, plus the undisclosed resources of the Ural fields, to carry them at least through another winter of war.

Loss of the Volga artery of supply would complicate the situation for Russia, but the Russians are putting up a magnificent stand before Stalingrad, which they hope to hold at any cost.

Dispatches from that front are far from discouraging. While it may be only a temporary success, Moscow reports that the Russians are not only holding but have driven the enemy back several kilometers in the area southwest of the city.

The situation is reminiscent of that at Moscow last year, when the Germans were within 13 miles of the capital but were driven back.

GERMAN advances in the south this summer have been impressive, but they have been mostly fruitless so far in that they gained no booty of consequence. It is extremely unlikely that they will get any oil from the Caucasus this year, although that was one of their principal objectives.

The Germans also have not knocked out the Russian Black sea fleet, which still is capable of preventing them from using the sea route to supply their armies. If Novorissisk and Tuapse fall, the fleet still might be able to operate, although naturally under a handicap, from the small ports of Poti and Batum.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — That gloomy report of the office of war information about our being only ankle-deep in this war so far wasn't eye-wash.

At least, a good many government officials in the highest places—armed with all of the information available on this war—think just that. Recently I sat through an off-the-record session with such an official. He has been twice to England and in many conferences with Churchill. He has been present at most of the war cabinet meetings here. He is constantly in touch with the British and Russians. He was not talking for publication so his name can't be used.

ON MY calender," he told me, "this war couldn't possibly be over before 1946 and probably not before 1948. After we defeat Hitler, it will take two years at the minimum to knock out the Japs and I doubt very much if we can begin to push Hitler around in Europe before 1945."

He said that those persons who anticipate a collapse of Germany (or Japan either) because of shortages of materials or manpower are just wishful thinkers. And that the facts are that German production and manpower are at their highest peak and growing daily.

In spite of his prediction about the length of the duration, he expressed the opinion that casualties wouldn't nearly approach those of the World war.

"There will, of course, be casualties. In some cases they will be shocking. But this is a war of materials and machines and shipping such as the world has never seen."

In this war, he explained, it will be the men who get there fustest with the mostest of those things who will win it. To knock out 1,000 medium tanks might wreck a huge offensive, but in those tanks would only be 3,000 men.

AS FOR the second front, this official refused to join in the clamor of other armchair generals. Disclaiming any knowledge of military strategy, he expressed grave doubt that a second front would have the desired effect of diverting the Germans from their Russian offensive.

If it did, even if it cost a half million men and all their equipment, he thought it might be worth it; but for the very reason that the Nazis have the manpower and possibly the machine power, they might be able to combat a second front to a stalemate without being diverted.

As for the thousand-plane raids on German cities, this observer said very emphatically and from first-hand knowledge that they were far more spectacular than effectual. To raze a city is one thing; to raze enough camouflaged and well-hidden war factories to wreck the war effort or even halt it for any length of time is another.

These are just some of the personal opinions expressed by one man—but that man is in a position to be in on the know. He may be wrong, but so may be others.

Man About Manhattan

Broadway Snowball

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Last year Mr. A. J. Liebling, one of New York's more interesting writers, wrote an amazing piece for the New Yorker magazine called The Jolity Building. This was the tale of a fabulous theatrical building on Broadway, and those around town who knew Mr. Liebling personally at once suspected that Jolity wasn't altogether a piece of imaginative fiction.

It turned out that Jolity Building was at once purchased by the movies, or so I have been told, and then a lot of people, including the movie people, were amazed to learn that Jolity was in reality nothing more nor less than the Strand theater building on Broadway, whose shenannigans have intrigued Mr. Liebling and thousands of others.

Well, there is never any explaining what happens on Broadway in any case, and it wasn't long before an idea was around to build a musical comedy out of Jolity Building to be called "Birds of a Feather," and Cheryl Crawford was to produce it. For music they were to use some unpublished tunes by the late George Gershwin, which would have been a fitting climax to a Liebling hunch that grew into a lucrative gag one sultry day last summer.

But now the whole thing's been called off, which is the same as saying that it probably will be done anyway. Once these Broadway snowballs get started . . .

MOTHER KELLY'S is a night-club that rests on the site of the late and lamented Beachcomer, of which this reporter was wont to wax sentimental. . . . I mention this not in extenuation of The Beach, but to bring out a point that may, in time, pose a puzzle for tourists. Mother Kelly himself is a man. He has one son in the army and another in the navy, and both of them call him MOTHER!

BELIEVE me, the Charles Weidman dancers—though devoted to semi-classical interpretation—deserve a tremendous hand for their down-to-earth pantomimes on the old silent films. . . . They have a travesty on Theda Bara while that sly beauty is escaping from a leper colony in the south seas that is terrific comedy. . . . It is a good thing it is all done in pantomime. . . . The crowds at the Rainbow Room were so clamorous that words could not have been heard. . . . The Weidmans also approximate snowflakes in a storm, and they have another number that is an excellent interpretation of a prize fight, in pantomime. . . . If you think they can't interpret snowflakes—remember, not many people thought Reginald Gardner could imitate wallpaper—but he could, and did.

As Others See It

This May Explain It.

We think we have more trouble than others because when they are having trouble we are so busy enjoying ourselves that we don't notice it.—Kansas City Times.

One Thing To Consider.

The only question is, would a second front cost more men than a 10-year war without Russia's help.—Akron Beacon-Journal.

Vignettes--1942

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I STOPPED for a dollar's worth of gas. The station attendant hurried out, smiled as he filled my order, then sprayed and wiped my windshield. "How's business?" I asked.

"Slow"—he polished the glass carefully—"but I've no complaint. It's what we can expect. . . ."

"I guess you miss the drivers who have gone to the army," I suggested.

He nodded, then stepped to my car window.

"There was one family that dealt here that had four cars. Three boys, one married, and their mother and dad . . . they all drove in here from the farm and bought gas from me. Now there's only one car left of the lot and it'll soon stop coming."

"The boys went to war?"

"Yes. The youngest enlisted—he was 18. The others got their numbers up—they was less'n two years apart, in age. Now the old man—he's really not so old—told me yesterday that he, himself, might go, just anytime. They got married young—he no longer has any dependents—don't it beat heck? The only one left of that family'll be the mother—and she doesn't drive."

OUR five children went up the slope to pick blackberries. All over the hill tangled dewberry briers and low blackberry stalks are full of black fruit.

Big sister, in blue slacks and broad brimmed hat, led the procession of small brown brothers. Even the littlest not yet three, had his tin cup, to help with the work at hand.

The sun came out from behind a cloud just as two groups of four-motored U. S. bombers came into the sky above the horizon.

The gigantic warbirds roared over—one formation, then the other. Their shadows swept along the valley—along the slope where the children were watching.

They waved and shouted and stood looking after the planes until they disappeared in the clouds.

"Aren't they wonderful?" I heard the tall girl say. "Now when I'm a nurse, maybe. . . ."

"Think I'll study aeronautics," remarked the oldest boy. "That's got a future to it."

I knew how they felt. I turned away, and felt a little old.

SYNOPSIS

While waiting in a Share-Expense-Auto-Travel-agency in Washington, D. C., Amy Tudor, an attractive young woman with copper-colored hair, becomes aware of Paul Bevan, a handsome man, who, like her, is traveling to Cincinnati. Presently the agency manager introduces Amy to Bevan, Miss Spires, a middle-aged woman, and a Mr. McCloud, an attorney from Seattle, who will do the driving. Bevan quickly helps Amy into the car and sits beside her in the rear seat. This is Amy's first trip to Cincinnati, which is Bevan's home town. Replying to Miss Spires' numerous questions Bevan says he has been out of the country three years—two years in Europe, and one year in Cuba. In Cuba, he explains, he spent his time experimenting in colors, for he is an artist, painting in oils. He tells Miss Spires that if the United States should declare war he would enlist. When they stop for supper in a little mountain town Bevan invites Amy to a little restaurant. They soon become well acquainted. Amy, recounting her experiences, says she has lived in Paris and Jugo-Slavia and elsewhere abroad. Her father, now dead, was connected with the State Department. Her mother, she says, died when Amy was a baby. Her father had taught her to appreciate music and art. She had failed in a civil service examination and soon would be teaching French in the Brendermier Conservatory in Cincinnati in which she invested $300, leaving her a balance of only $21.52. Bevan is surprised. There is no such school, he says.

CHAPTER II

The dents at the corners of Bevan's mouth that gave that effect of lurking laughter disappeared in a line of bitterness. "It's better not to be bound by obligations to anybody. I wish I . . . oh, well, skip that. But what can you do when you get to Cincinnati?"

"Get myself a job."

He regarded her severely. "That's easily said. But—well, I'm thinking of what you've told me about yourself and I doubt if there are jobs lying around for people who can speak French beautifully or converse with diplomats at a dinner table. I know something about jobs for untrained people though. I earned my way through art school in Cincinnati. I ran an elevator and one summer I was barker at a carnival. Who knows? Maybe I'll be running an elevator again. But wait a minute. I'm going to read you an instructive bit of literature."

He strode over to the news rack and scanned the papers there. "No Cincinnati papers. . . . Here's one from Pittsburgh. It'll do just as well as an object lesson."

While the waitress carried their soup bowls away he turned the pages. "Here we are — classified ads. Now listen. . . . 'Beauty culture theory instructress. Must have experience. Give age and telephone number.' What is your age—nineteen?"

"Twenty-one," she said. "But you're asking that for your own information."

"You have me there," he admitted. "But anyway, you don't know anything about the theory of beauty culture. Now, let's read on. . . . 'Beauty operator.' . . . 'Beauty operator.' . . . Half a column of them. . . . 'Curtain stretcher and presser.' . . . You know you never stretched a curtain in your life, Amy Tudor. . . . 'Millinery turban makers.' . . . Can you make a millinery turban? . . . 'Operator for rayon underwear. . . . 'Operators, experienced, for single needle power machine. Night work.' . . . 'Punch press operator.'"

"What is a punch press?" she inquired.

"There! Do you see?"

"Yes, I see." She sat up very straight; her eyes were enormous. "But I'm going on to Cincinnati."

Impulsively he wadded the want ad page and flung it on the floor. "You're not so big, Amy, but you certainly are made of durable material. If you'd just let me hang around until you get started. Sort of an old family friend," he finished, grinning.

Amy wasn't used to having men set limits on their friendship with her. "You don't look like anybody's old family friend," she said perversely. She could have bitten her tongue off, for she saw a wary look in his eyes. "He's used to having women make passes at him," she thought. "He's too charming and he's spoiled, "and for a moment she didn't like him.

"I just meant," she said wickedly. "that you look like those beautiful movie men who sign autograph books."

He scowled furiously at that and she liked him better. "When I sign anything it'll be a painting that—Now, what the—" he broke off disgustedly.

Miss Spires was coming toward their table, her sensible hat set at a determined angle. Behind her, Mr. McCloud loomed tall and embarrassed.

And that was that until they got back into the automobile. The car climbed a steep slope now, to where the moon rode high above the mountains and mists trailed gossamer veils across the valleys beneath them.

"There, Mr. Bevan," Miss Spires sang back from the front seat. "Wouldn't you like to paint that?"

"No," he said impatiently. "Too much panorama. Too much vastness."

"What do you paint?" Amy asked.

In the half light of the car she saw his vehement grimace. "Rich women. And I hate 'em."

"Then why do you paint them?"

"Because—oh, damn it! What is there about you that makes me want to tell you the truth! Because I have ties that I hate. You see there is a woman who—"

He broke off abruptly.And looking up Amy saw that Miss Spires had stopped talking and was sitting rigid with her ear toward the back seat.

And so Amy asked, "What do you like to paint?"

* * *

As though in answer they dipped down into the dark pocket of another valley and there—a sudden picture against the black wall of the night—was a lighted window, a stone fire-place, a grizzled head above the high back of a chair, the glow of firelight on the gold of a young woman's hair, on her hand offering the ancient a pipe, on the naked baby balanced on her hip.

"There," he said. "Something like that—intimate, simple."

"I see," she said softly, liking him very much now. There was nothing of the spoiled charmer about him when he talked of his art. Even in the half light of the car she could make out the glow on his face and she lay back watching the faint dimples come and go at the corners of his mouth while he said, "Sometime when—well, when everything's over—It'll depend on Hitler and Hirohito I supose—I'm going to have a cabin way off somewhere, in the Kentucky hills probably — where there are no neighbors and only trees looking in at the windows. And I'll pay my rent and buy enough groceries for six months and then shut myself up and thumb my nose at the world and paint and paint and paint."

And so he gave her his dreams while the car dipped up and down over mountains and valleys and the moon rode so high it was directly above the top of the car. Amy's eyes closed and his voice faded off. And then she heard it again saying. "Why you poor little thing. "You're tired out."

She opened her eyes then to realize that he was bending over her anxiously and that the feather on her hat was poking him in the eye.

"I guess I was sleepy," she admitted. "I sat up most of last night getting packed."

He took her hat off, getting his fingers tangled for a second in her hair, trying to undo the rubber band.

"And here's a pillow," Miss Spires offered. "Always make yourself comfortable wherever you are. That's what I say."

Amy smoothed her brown jacket so that it wouldn't wrinkle when she lay on it and sought for a place to put the pillow.

"Want to lay your head on my shoulder?" Paul suggested.

"No thank you," she said with her spunkiest, most independent little air. "I'll fix the pillow right here in the corner. There—this is just fine."

It wasn't just fine, though. Every turn of the road jolted her and each time they went over a bump it was as though a pile driver pounded against her spine.

She straightened up, stretched and yawned, and put the pillow against the arm rest. But before long her ear hurt and she sat up again.

"For the love of heaven!" Paul's voice came to her from the other side of the car. "My shoulder's a better space than that. Come here."

She was so tired. Her back ached. Her neck ached. Her eyelids felt like lead. She crawled over and rested her head on his shouldr. His shoulder was hard, but he moved so that there was a courve in which her head just fitted. He pulled the blanket around her and tucked it in. To the steady grind of the engine and the drone of Miss Spire's voice talking on and on she fell asleep.

Later she awoke and saw the tall torches of blast furnaces reflected in a river and she sat up groggily and said, "Pittsburgh," and then, "Are you comfortable?"

"This shoulder's going to sleep," Bevan said drowsily. "Let's change to the other side."

So they moved and she tried the other shoulder.

Once the car lurched and she almost slid to the floor. She was sleepily aware of his arm reaching out to pull her up to the seat again and staying around her, holding her steady.

Later she awoke for a moment and felt his head against hers, his breath stirring her hair—an even breath because he was sound asleep.

This time she really went to sleep, feeling suddenly sure and, for the first time in months—safe.

Somewhere in southern Ohio Amy Tudor opened her eyes and saw a big red sun slipping up from behind gently rolling hills, the sparkle of frost on the roof of a great white barn and a white brick house behind rows of white patched sycamore trees. As that slipped by she took in the blur of color close to her eyes and realized that it was a necktie. Then she moved her head and felt the roughness of a coat lapel against her cheek. She sat up to find Paul smiling at her, his black hair tousled.

Womanlike, her hand went to her own hair. And manlike, his hand went to his chin feeling the slight stubble there. There was a queer moment of self-consciousness between them.

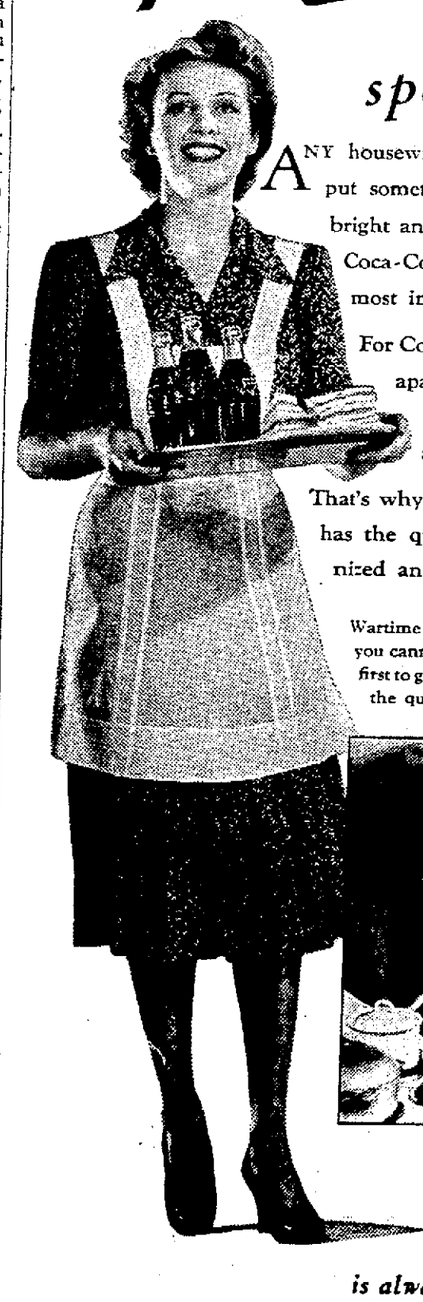
That Extra Something!

...You can spot it every time



ANY housewife can tell you that in wartime you have to put something extra into housekeeping to make a home bright and cheerful. And housewives know that ice-cold Coca-Cola, sparkling, refreshing, helps to brighten the most important part of home . . . the people in it.

For Coca-Cola has a unique, extra something that sets it apart . . . a finished art in its making that gives it unmatched taste-appeal . . . with an unmistakable after-sense of refreshment.

That's why no imitator can copy it. That's why Coca-Cola has the quality and delicious goodness so widely recognized and welcomed by all.

* * *

Wartime limits the supply of Coca-Cola. Those times when you cannot get it, remember: Coca-Cola, being first choice, is the first to go. Ask for it each time. No matter how short the supply, the quality of Coca-Cola will not be changed in any respect.

Families working on war schedules add an extra burden to the job of housewife. In such homes, ice-cold Coca-Cola brings sparkling refreshment to lighten the task.

AUXILIARIES ENJOY DIFFERENT MEETINGS

Charles Dick Women Have Quilting, Dinner; Bridge Played at Legion; Picnic for Delano Mothers.

YESTERDAY was meeting day for three club auxiliaries when they gathered for quilting, bridge and a picnic. Longest session was held at Memorial hall by the Charles Dick Auxiliary No. 28, when 14 members held an afternoon quilting party and served a 6 o'clock dinner in charge of Mrs. Mary Smith.

Shower Honors Recent Bride

A miscellaneous shower was given last week-end in honor of Mrs. Alva Dunkle, nee Geraldine Brumenschenkel, at the home of Miss Opal Robinson, 196 Buckingham street. Games were played during the evening. Prizes were awarded to the Misses Erma Grandstaff, Eleanor Carver and Vivian Roach.

When luncheon was served, decorations for the long table were in keeping with a shower. Each of the 14 guests was given a green favor with miniature umbrella. Mrs. Dunkle received many lovely gifts.

Social Pon-go Club Has New Member

Meeting of the Social Pon-Go club was held last night at the home of Mrs. Anne Kinkel, Overlook road. Mrs. Blanche Lump, Mrs. Mildred Moxley and Mrs. Rose Baughman were guests. Mrs. Moxley was taken into the club at this meeting. Mrs. Jack TyRee, who has just returned from her wedding in Ogden, Utah, was welcomed by the group. She is the former Miss Lena Reiter.

A series of parties will be given in Mrs. TyRee's honor in the near future. Time was spent sewing and after the luncheon, bingo was played. The next meeting will be held Sept. 1 at the home of Mrs Mary Jane Kinkel on Mendota street.

GUILD HAS MEETING.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour 2 pints of bile juice into your bowels every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Then gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those 2 pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Get a package today. Take as directed. Effective in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. 10c and 25c.

* Mrs. Maude Blakley, senior vice president, led the business session. Historian, Mrs. Georgia Bell, gave a paper on "The Men Who Remember the Name." Another all-day quilting will be held Aug. 27 with a regular business meeting on Sept 1.

Legion Bridge Players.

Then in the afternoon at the Legion home, four tables of contract bridge were in play for the American Legion Auxiliary Bridge club with Mrs. Charles Sanderson serving as hostess. First and second prize winners were Mrs Ralph Hughes and Mrs William Fisher, respectively. For the Sept. 1 play, Mrs. Ralph Shively will be hostess.

Enjoy Family Picnic.

Thirty persons were in attendance for the family picnic of the Delano Auxiliary at North Lake park yesterday noon. After a short business meeting, contests and games were conducted for the children and members. Next regular meeting will be Sept. 1 in the lodge hall.

Women were reminded of the Red Cross Sewing circle meeting this afternoon with Mrs. Bennick, Crestline avenue. The picnic committee included Mrs. Hedwig Hamilton, Mrs. Helen Welsh and Mrs. Iva Ish.

Venus Runs News Of War To Press And Telegraph

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW — Upon the dainty feet of a 15-year-old Soviet girl depends—at least for a couple of miles—the job of getting news of the gigantic Russian-German war to Associated Press newspapers.

Her name is Venus Nightingale, but she has the feet of Mercury.

Hers is the task of running many times to and from the Associated Press office to press departments, then returning for review copy after censorship, then hotfooting it through Moscow's streets to the telegraph office.

Venus Nightingale runs fast for two reasons She is loyal to the Associated Press and she likes to run

She's just as good in snow as in sunshine.

She was hired last winter in this fashion

"We need some one to run copy" I said to AP Secretary Sophia Tchijovy "Try to find a boy"

"I know a girl who can outrun any boy in Moscow," said the secretary, who always was a feminist. 'She's some sort of schoolgirl champion runner He name is Venus Nightingale in English," said Tchijovy.

Venus has competitors and the field is crammed with professional jealousy Her chief competitor is a Russianized man whose father is Italian his mother French He's spent most of his life in China and Moscow. But he can't outrun Venus

Recently during a hot news flash she already had beaten him to the telegraph office with the first bulletin, then doubled back and started after him with the second He saw her. The humiliation of twice being passed was too much He gave his last ounce of speed, staggered through the telegraph door and ended up at the window 10 feet behind Venus Then he collapsed

NO TEACHER

LUCAS—The "little red school house" is also a victim of the teacher shortage this year

The Forest Hall school in Mifflin township, located north of Lucas, was still without a teacher today, according to R E Barr, Mansfield R D 45, member of the Mifflin board of education

The school one of four one-room buildings operated in Mifflin township, had an enrollment of about 30 grade pupils last year.

CLUB TO MEET

ASHLAND — The September meeting of the Flower Gardeners club will be held on the afternoon of Sept 1 at the cottage of Mrs. Frank B Downs at Mifflin Lake. Election of officers for the coming year will be held

The Lady of the Islands

JULIE BISHOP—Lovely Hollywood player—appears for the candid cameraman in her best Waikiki Beach hula regalia and her most come-hither smile She supports Ida Lupino, Joan Leslie, Dennis Morgan and Jack Carson in Warner's "The Hard Way."

New Happy Hints For Saving by The Easy Way

Grandma knew sleeping accommodations for baby's first few months needn't be expensive. Think what you can do with luggage rack and a simple laundry basket. Simply add a can of white paint and a few yards of ruffled net to make a darling bassinet

Children don't need so many changes of clothes if mother launders twice a week instead of once Substantial savings are made this way because children grow so quickly, they rarely "get the wear" out of their clothes.

Local retailers are cutting down on deliveries to save tires and gas. Help them be patriotic and carry small parcels Good roomy shopping bags are a new fashion trend Some of them roll up and fit in your handbag.

If window shades are stained, faded, or dirty beyond cleaning, take them down and have them reserved so that the lower section most often exposed is the part that stays rolled up at the top

AUTO FOUND

GALION—A stolen car belonging to Don Kelly, Galion was found parked in an alley Tuesday evening by Crestline police. The car was stolen in Galion Saturday evening

Wayside Bible Class Meets at Rahn Home

Mrs. Louis Rahn was hostess to 17 members of the Wayside Bible class at her home Tuesday evening. The business session was conducted by Mrs. R. E. Snyder. Mrs Charles Brooks had charge of devotions

The lesson study of the seventh chapter of Luke was given by Mrs Dale Wachs. Mrs. Snyder will be hostess for the next meeting, which will be in the form of a covered-dish dinner at the Friendly House camp at 6 p. m. on Sept. 1.

Celebrate Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Sunkel

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Sunkel celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Tuesday at their home, 127 Park avenue east. Approximately 70 of the couple's friends and relatives called on them during the afternoon and evening to extend their congratulations. Fifteen bouquets of flowers and many lovely gifts were received by the Sunkels. When refreshments were served, two large wedding cakes graced the table. Mr. and Mrs. Sunkel, who were united in marriage in Mansfield on Aug. 18, 1892, have a son and two daughters, Merl Sunkel, Mrs. Max Mosberg and Mrs. I. M. Mosberg, all residents of this city. Before his retirement, Mr. Sunkel was yardmaster for the Erie railroad. Both Mr and Mrs. Sunkel are enjoying good health.

Now Old Problem Of Canning and Sugar Discussed

Prudent and patriotic housewives, in this first year of our engagement in World War II, are giving increasing thought to the importance of canning fruits and vegetables at home. Home-canning is immediately important not alone because it is necessary, as a matter of national policy, to conserve food supplies of all kinds. It also has direct military significance because it frees commercially-canned foods for consumption by our armed forces, and clears freight space for essential war materials.

Fruit-canning, particularly, inevitably brings up questions of sugar supplies. To those housewives who have imagined that only drastically restricted amounts of sugar may be purchased for home-canning the Office of Price Administration's food-rationing program, gives this assurance: "There is no specific limitation on the amount of sugar which a family may obtain for the purpose of home-canning. Local War Price and Rationing Boards are authorized to permit the use of any reasonable amount of sugar for home-canning with the understanding that with each pound of sugar four quarts of fruit will be canned."

Sugar is indispensable in canning for a number of reasons. It is, of course, an ideal preservative, but it also improves the flavor, and stabilizes the color, texture and form of canned product. It makes canned goods more palatable, and substantially increases their food value.

W.C.T.U. Holds Picnic at Park

The Francis Willard W. C. T. U. met at South park for a picnic at noon on Tuesday with 17 members in attendance Ten members of the Iota Sigma chapter were guests. Ms. W C B. Harris conducted the business session and devotions were given by Mrs. F. O. Haldeman

Mrs. Estella Solomon had charge of the program. Music was furnished by Mrs. Woodard and Mr. Haynes, who sang and played their own accompaniments on the accordion and guitar. Place for the next meeting will be announced.

For Service Letters Use A Good Pen

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Scores of women have written to me that letters to their husbands and sweethearts overseas have not been answered. Others have written that their letters have been returned.

If the envelopes are like those which some women have sent to me to confirm the fact that overseas letters were undelivered, it's not surprising they've never reached their destination.

Letters should be written care of Postmaster, Port of Embarkation—New York or San Francisco.

The little woman, when she sits down to write to her husband or sweetheart, instead of writing as plainly as possible on an envelope, picks up the stub of a pencil on the kitchen shelf and writes to Private John Smith or whatever the beloved's name happens to be. She's probably agitated at the time, used a hard pencil that traces a faint line or sometimes indents without tracing at all, and lets it go at that.

Let me beseech you with all the vehemence at my command, when you write to your husband or sweetheart overseas, to buy a bottle of ink and a pen. Give that stub of a pencil on the kitchen shelf a holiday until you've finished.

You needn't write on high-priced note-paper. Get white or cream, passing over the poisonous pinks and the gangrenous greens.

When you get down to writing your letter, please don't write "gloomsters." Your soldier boy's pay has been jumped from $21 to $50—ample cause for rejoicing. If you're his wife, part of this will be allotted to you, so be cheerful about the whole business and don't write about illness. Aunt Maria's neuralgia may be trying to all the family, but don't send bulletins concerning it overseas.

Write sprightly, newsy letters. A young father is more interested in the baby's new tooth than sugar rationing.

And one more word—don't talk to your neighbors about where your husband or sweetheart or son is stationed overseas. In Australia, they refer to these talkative wives as "chatter bugs." Don't join that organization.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"Incidentally," my father went on, "it will be some time before I can arrange for you and Richard to start. I must get Katharine off first. So as soon as you have packed, lie down and sleep until Richard awakens you. I will have him come up here as soon as Katharine goes, and I will stay at the Underwood home while you are gone. Now, au revoir. I shall return in less than an hour. Let me find you asleep."

He kissed me tenderly and went out. The door had no sooner closed behind him than the bedroom door opened and Katharine came into the living room.

"I know something important is afoot," she said, "by the tone of the Chief's voice. Is it anything I can know?"

"Indeed you can," I told her. "Part of it concerns you."

Katharine swayed and her hand went to her throat.

"Jack!" she said faintly.

"No, no," I almost shouted. "It is nothing even remotely concerning him."

Tells About Letter.

Her color came back and I saw the wraith of a smile on her lips. Then I told her of Carolyn's letter, and my father's subsequent plans.

She listened quietly, and when I had finished sprang to her feet, her face showing more animation than I had seen in it since she came to the city in response to the forged summons she believed Jack had sent her.

"Oh, I am so glad of this!" she exclaimed. "You can't imagine what this inaction is doing to me. If I were only doing something to help Jack!"

"I think you are by just being at hand if he should need you," I told her, "and I am sure my father will wish you to return here as soon as this affair of Carolyn is disposed of."

"She's going to be a hard nut to crack, that girl," Katharine said, "and I don't envy Lillian the job. And just think of it, Madge! I'll be with your blessed youngsters for a day or two at least. How I have missed them!"

Madge to Take a Nap.

A less tactful woman would have said "my blessed youngsters," and would have wounded me deeply, for it always gives my heartstrings a tug to realize that another woman has the chief care of my children.

"They undoubtedly have missed you even more," I said. "Kiss them for me, and tell them I'll be home as soon as I can."

"I'll do that," she said, "but before all details about Carolyn have been ironed out by your father and Ronald, you'll have time for a nap. You'll only want an overnight bag for an emergency, and I know what goes into it."

"It's virtually packed now," I replied.

"Then I'll finish it," she said, "so get into a negligee now and snatch a nap until Dicky wakens you."

"My father's plan, exactly," I told her.

"Great minds," she quoted, and pulled me up from my chair.

"I'll kiss you goodbye now," she said, "and I don't want to hear a peep out of you until Dicky comes over to relieve me.

"I imagine there'll be quite a hiatus between my departure and yours, so you'll have a chance to sleep an hour or two."

Continued Tomorrow.

Service Men Want Letter From Child

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

We have heard and read tragic stories of men in the armed forces who practically never receive a letter from any one Parents have been urged repeatedly to write often and regularly to their sons. There are more fathers in the armed forces and among the brave men of the merchant marine service than we realize. Consider how many of these defenders of our nation have brothers and sisters of school age at home. Then observe how few of these brothers and sisters write to these defenders.

In the average home the mother takes responsibility for writing regularly to members of the family away from home. Fathers as well as mothers should write.

Not Always Willing.

Moreover, one might suppose that any boy or girl over six or seven years of age would enjoy writing regularly to the father or big brother in a military, naval or air training camp or on the front. But this does not happen, as a rule, unless the child is reminded to do so by the parents, or even made to do so. Curious, you say, that a child should be forced to write his father or brother. No more curious than that he might have to be forced to write to his grandmother a "thank you" letter for her Christmas or birthday gifts to him.

Children soon forget and they find their interests of the moment stronger than their desire to take the time and effort to write a letter. Then it may be a long time before a reply is received. Some persuasive parents can induce the child to imagine the pleasures they can contribute in this way. Yet, the average child from 6 to 16 needs to be urged to write. It should be made a regular part of the child's program. But don't let it become an unpleasant subject for nagging.

Means to Education.

If parents and other adults are always ready to help a young writer spell and express what he wishes to say in his letter, his correspondence should prove about the best possible means of good education.

The first British settlement in Australia was established at the head of Sydney Cove in 1788.

Be a Water Baby; Swim For Health

By MME QUI VIVE

Every girl and woman should be a water baby. One of the encouraging signs of the times is that swimming becomes more popular every year. What is more refreshing on a hot day than plunging into the waves, propelling one's body in a leisurely manner, breathing the fresh air into the lungs? In many localities, where beaches are not avalable, swimming pools are established. It's a grand idea.

Don't be a sissy and wade in; plunge at once. That's what the doctor orders. On entering the water there is a profound impression on the circulation, the temperature may be thirty degrees below that of the body, and the stimulus to the nerve centers may be considerable. The loss of heat calls immediately for heat production. You'll get your heating plant going by brisk vigorous movements. There will be a quick reaction of the blood streams if you strike out, breast the waves.

Complete immersion is the rule because it tends to equalize circulation. Another rule: do not go into the water when greatly overheated or excessively fatigued. Spend half an hour rubbing on your sun tan oil. Then you can join the mermaids and mermen.

Swimming, like many another exercise, will slenderize the plump duckies, help fill out the skinnies. It is normalizing. It is particularly beneficial to the girl with undeveloped chest because it stimulates the respiratory organs. The movements of the arms have a vitalizing effect upon the musculature of the torso, tending to strengthen the fibers and acting favorably upon an undeveloped bust.

For heavy hips, leg movements will be found helpful. The free movement of the hip joint will discourage fat cells, make them go off and die. A swimming session every day, together with a cutting down on foods that contain sweets, starches and fats, is precisely and exactly what the dumpling-shaped lady needs to improve her silhouette.

Those women who are toiling at war work can find no better way of spending Saturday afternoons than at the beach. This delightful recreation will give them greater endurance with which to wrestle with the job.

There is also the sunlight that fills the human system with vitamins, creating energy and well being.

Let us hope you protect your skin from the sun Tanning year after year causes the complexion to lose delicacy of coloring and fine texture. Protect it with oil or cream.

"The Authority on Authorities"

ONE IS NOT ENOUGH

Unless you can run nine tricks as soon as you gain the lead, a No Trump game is a risky proposition when you have only a single stopper in some suit. If the opponents knock that one out at the beginning, you have to try either of two methods. One is to take your nine tricks at once, if you can, and the other is to try to keep out of the lead the hand which possesses the long suit. The hold-up play sometimes will work in this and sometimes not.

Against that West opened the heart K. South let it win, took the J with A and ruffed the 9 with the spade Q. Three high spades of his own cleared trumps and the diamond 3 was led toward the K-Q. West ducked, and the defenders managed to get one trick in each minor, South making his contract right on the head.

At another table of the same duplicate, the bidding went the same up to the point shown above where South bid 3-Spades. That South instead bid 3-No Trumps, and North left it. South was taking a chance on the heart A being the only stopper he needed in that suit, but was wrong.

Holding up until the third round of hearts, this declarer then ran six spades and led to the club suit, playing the 10. East won with the K and naturally switched to a diamond. The A took that and West finished with hearts, setting the contract two tricks. The set could have been limited to one by taking the club A on the tenth trick, but the contract could not have been made by doing that. West was always bound to get the lead and run hearts.

Tomorrow's Problem.

How would you play this deal as a 3-No Trumps declarer in the East if South leads the heart 3, North putting on the 10?

WOMEN SERVE

BUCYRUS—Women are gradually taking over the duties of precinct election officials, a check of figures in the office of the Crawford county board of elections indicate here today. A total of 194 women assisted primary voters this year in the county as compared with 128 who served as primary judges and clerks five years ago.

The trend toward women election officials is as evident in rural areas as in urban districts in the county, the survey indicated.

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, August 20

NOTWITHSTANDING sudden reversals, upsets and obstacles this day may be one of momentous events. These obstructions, commotions, emotional crisis may be precipitated from and upon all phases of life, with the most spectacular reactions in the affectional, romantic, domestic and social contacts. Rash and violent outbursts, temper, turbulence and ungoverned acts and words may incite or exaggerate such conditions, with active opposition from elders or relatives. Nevertheless, the course of true love is likely to move to high culminations.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of spectacular adventures, with turmoil, quarrels and sudden and devastating visitations that must be deemed hectic, passionate and violent. The enmity or vindictive antagonism of relatives or elders may heighten such angry crises. However, it seems as though the most ardent, fiery and ungoverned conduct would not swerve the emotional or sentimental passions.

A child born on this day may be tempestuous, hectic and violent, with strong emotional temperament.

FILLS LUCAS SCHOOL POSTS

Superintendent Says Home Economics Instructor Only Vacancy.

LUCAS — The employment of Mrs. Mae Huston of Mansfield, as instructor in English and Latin in the Lucas high school, and of Prof. Frank Gfrer of Mansfield, as music director, was announced here today by Supt. J. E. McCullough.

The name of an instructor for the Lucas commercial courses, also employed at a recent meeting of the Lucas board of education, was not revealed, since the position had not yet been accepted.

Still to be filled on the Lucas faculty is the place of home economics instructor, a Smith-Hughes' position.

In the selection of a custodian for the Lucas school building, to succeed Donald Rummell who resigned recently, it is reported that when the Lucas board meets Saturday night it will have more than a dozen candidates to choose from.

Mrs. Huston has been a member of the teaching staff of the Cleveland public schools for several years, while Prof. Gfrer is a well-known Mansfield musician, having directed the Prospect park band and the Liederkranz glee club for several years. He is a graduate of Ashland college.

The Lucas schools will open Tuesday, Sept. 8, it was announced today by Supt. McCullough. The registration of high school students will be received at the school building throughout the previous week.

LEAVES JOB

MILLERSBURG — Another vacancy was made in the teaching staff of schools of the county system today when Guy Secoy, industrial arts instructor at the Holmesville schools resigned. Supt. D. C. Egger said Secoy will teach in the Baltic schools. His resignation made a total of 12 vacancies among county teachers.

FINES TOTAL $907

ASHLAND — Fines and costs collected by Police Judge Harold E. Andrews for the month of July totaled $907. The report was accepted by council members at their meeting this week. Parking meters netted the city $716.12 during July.

NAMED TO POST

LUCAS—Loren Rebman, native of Lucas, has been named superintendent of the Beallsville public schools in Monroe county, according to information received by Lucas relatives recently.

A graduate of Wittenberg col- Mansfield R. D. 4, member of the high school faculty at Reesville for four years before going to Lewisville where he served as superintendent for 13 years. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Rebman of near Lucas.

MILLERSBURG—Funeral services for Mrs. George Brown, who died at her home at Union Grove, near Glenmont at 11 p. m. Monday, will be held at the residence at 2 p. m. Thursday. Rev. C. C. Smith of the Utica Church of Christ will be in charge. Burial will be in the Union Grove Church of Christ cemetery.

Mrs. Brown who was 73 on July 8 has spent her entire life in Richland township. She was married 51 years ago. Her husband survives with a daughter, Mrs. J. W. Bower of Union Grove; a granddaughter, Geneva Bower; a sister, Mrs. J. W. Crosky, Killbuck.

The body will be removed from the Elliott funeral home to the residence Wednesday morning.

URGE CLOSING HOUR AT CHURCH

ASHLAND—A petition asking that services at the Church of God here be made to close at 10 p. m. was presented to Ashland council at their meeting this week.

The petition, signed by 36 men and women, who live in the vicinity of the church which is located in north Ashland at the corner of 11th street and Myers avenue, stated that there was shouting and singing and screaming at the church services which disturbed the neighbors.

40 ATTEND

CRESTLINE—Forty members were present and one candidate was obligated at the meeting of the Eagles auxiliary Monday evening. Mrs. Edgar Poole presided and the captain, Mrs. E. Gordon Jenkins appointed members of the new team.

GALION ADOPTS CYCLE RULES

Ordinance Prohibits Riding of Bicycles in City's Downtown Area.

GALION — When the Galion city council met at City building last night the bicycle ordinance, requiring licensing of all bicycle riders in the city, was passed. The license plates, which may be secured for a fee of 25 cents, after an application form is o.k.'d by the police department, will bear the license number assigned to the bicycle and the name of the city.

The ordinance also provides that bicycle riders shall obey all traffic laws and no person will be allowed to ride a bicycle in the business district. Bicycles must have a lamp on the front and a red reflector on the rear. Each bicycle must be equipped with a bell or other audible signal. A violator of the ordinance's provisions will be punished by a fine of not more than $100 or by imprisonment for not more than 60 days or by removal or detention of license plates for a period not to exceed 90 days or by impounding a person's bicycle not to exceed 90 days.

Two other ordinances were passed. One provides for the issuance of bonds in the principal sum of $55,000 for the City hospital. The other provides for the transfer of $2,000 from the electric light fund to the poor relief fund, $15,000 from the water works fund to the works improvement fund, and $135 from the street repair fund to parks, payroll laborers.

The budget for the year 1943 was adopted and the alley committee requested that the junk in the alley behind the Studebaker garage be removed, closing the meeting.

GALION MEN TO LEAVE FOR ARMY

GALION — Galion men from Crawford county draft board No. 2 to leave Bucyrus Monday, Aug. 2 are: Harold A. Martin, Samuel Manning, Charles G. Neal, Jimmie K. Leapley, Herman R. Bowers, Orville Gregory, Paul B. Snaderlin, Harold L. Noggle, Harold J. Sharrock and William N. Carmel.

They will be inducted formally into military service next Monday, after which they will be assigned to army training camps.

ACCEPTS POST

LUCAS—V. Leland Gilliland, former superintendent of the Lucas schools, has accepted the superintendency of the public schools at Ostrander in Delaware county, it was learned by Lucas friends today.

Gilliland, who came here from Minford in Scioto county, served as head of the Lucas schools for four years, during which the new annex to the Lucas school building was erected.

CLUB ELECTS

LUCAS—Mrs. C. B. Stacy, of Mt. Zion, was elected president of the Lucas Garden club at a recent picnic meeting of the organization.

Other officers named include Mrs. Jennie Andrews, vice president, and Mrs. J. A. Peyton, secretary-treasurer.

The picnic held at the roadside park near Mifflin was attended by about 50 members and guests of the club.

BIRTHS REPORTED

SHELBY—Mr. and Mrs. Mack Keller, 26 West Smiley avenue, are the parents of a son born Saturday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Harnley, 16½ Sharon street, are the parents of a daughter born Sunday morning.

BUCYRUS CITY COUNCIL HEARS FINANCIAL REPORTS AT MEETING

BUCYRUS—Bucyrus city council heard a report of cash balances receipts and expenditures in the city special and general funds; a financial report of the municipal swimming pool operation and other minor reports and submitted recommendations at their meeting Tuesday night.

All departments of the city show comfortable balances, the report given by City Auditor E. C. Oppenlander shows. The report also showed a surplus building up in the sewage disposal plant fund of approximately $7,000 annually which Oppenlander recommended that council continue for depreciation.

Safety Director Carl Jacobs asked that a special meeting of the finance committee be held within the next two weeks to make necessary transfers in the appropriations which will be necessary for the remainder of the year.

The report submitted by park committeeman Carl Light showed a total attendance at the swimming pool this season as of August 15, of 18,792 and total receipts for admissions of $3,771.85.

Light also recommended that a divers cleaning device be purchased for use at the pool which will cost approximately $135. The possibility of painting the walls of the pool was discussed.

Councilman Chester Sharrock recommended that steps be taken to determine why so large a number of leaks are occurring in the water mains. Council took no action on the recommendation.

A representative from the Tanner Laboratories at Attica was present and requested that council take favorable action on his request to have the use of Bucyrus airport to assemble an airplane invention which he told council "would put Bucyrus on the map as the airplane center of the world" if his experiments prove successful.

Council referred the request to the service director and the city solicitor and authorized that permission be granted if a legal and suitable arrangement could be worked out.

Legislation fixing the rate of wages for work of laying water lines at Camp Millard was adopted. Work at the camp will start within a week or ten days when fittings are expected to arrive.

Former legislation passed, granting furloughs to draftees was altered to include enlisted men upon recommendation of Councilman Chester Sharrock.

DEMS TO MEET

ASHLAND—A meeting of the Ashland County Democratic committee has been called for next Tuesday, Aug. 25, at 8:30 p. m. at the court house assembly room. The meeting was called by Roe E. Wolfe, who is retiring as chairman of the committee after two terms.

Wolfe was not a candidate for precinct committeeman at the primary election. He was succeeded in his Precinct B of the the Fourth ward of the city, by Carl Strang.

MADE SERGEANT

GALION — Mr. and Mrs. Roy McClenathan, 361 Atwood street, received word from their son, Kensel, that he was advanced to the rank of sergeant on Aug. 10 and was sent to officers candidate school at Fort Benning, Ga., on August 16.

Sport Podge by REX HESS

Joe Atton, the baseball catcher, softball first sacker and basketball referee, leaves for Columbus and service in the Army Air corps tomorrow.

Joe enlisted four months ago and is just now getting his call to active duty. Would-be fliers must wait their turn for training. In the meantime Joe has had a summer of sport that he didn't expect, and looks to be in fine condition.

Now the city basketball league will have to look for another referee, and maybe two. Chuck Saprano hopes to be in war work long before the cage season rolls around.

And while on the subject of basketball, it isn't too early for backers of city league teams to start rounding up their squads for next winter. Some of them will find they have replacements to make of men lost to the armed forces.

Without attempting an accurate survey, here are a few names called to mind of cagers in service: from the Westinghouse champions, George Hummel and Paul Wolfe in the army, Mac McCarty, Army Air corps; from Athletic Supplies, Manager John Burns, lieutenant in the army coastal artillery, Jake Lyons and Bob Spear i. the Army Air corps; from City News, Manager Jim Augustine; from Yuncker Sports, Manager and League President Joe Lesch, in the Army Air corps, and Bob Boyd, in the air corps ground crew; and from Blue Goose, Manager Pete Hergatt in the army, and Dick Talmadge in the navy.

Athletic Supplies also lose Bruce McGinty, enrolled at Ohio Wesleyan, and perhaps Dave Shelley, who took an army examination in Columbus yesterday.

Now that they've lost the state championship, perhaps the Provident Loan girls can have some fun again playing softball. There's no getting away from the fact that the two-year guardianship of the state title often caused them to tighten up, and to take defeats too seriously.

It's just a game again now, and persons have been known to play games for fun. I wouldn't be surprised if their play improves, now that they have nothing more to worry about, although it's difficult to see how they could improve on that 13-inning, 1-0 game in which they lost the crown at Akron.

Some of the girls, who have been playing ball for more years than they care to admit, have been threatening for two years to retire. Then they'd win the championship, and have to go on playing. They may carry out that threat next season.

Whether the team will stick together and try to build up again with young players is something that may not be decided until next spring.

* * *

"I never was so relieved in my life," asserted Provident Manager Doc Daugherty after his team was eliminated from the state tournament. "I wouldn't want to go through another two years of this worry for anything."

Mud Hens Beaten Twice by Birds

(By Associated Press)

Toledo's aspiring Mudhens hadn't missed many opportunities in their dash from the cellar to a contending position in the American association race—that is until last night.

With a chance to make the cycle complete—a jump from last to first place—the Mudhens blew the opportunity last night by losing a double header to the league-leading Columbus Red Birds.

Second place Kansas City also lost and had Toledo been able to take advantage of the set up, it would have been in the driver's seat today, a half game ahead.

Instead, the Mudhens find themselves in fourth place, three and a half games out of first. Columbus, meantime, has one of the strongest toe holds on the leadership held by any contender in the last few weeks—a full two games. Milwaukee, in third place, is three games behind.

Columbus won the opening game 6 to 4 and the second 2 to 1. Tonight the two rivals meet again in a single game.

Milwaukee defeated Kansas City 6 to 3 and the other two games, both doubleheaders, wound up in even breaks. Indianapolis defeated Louisville, 3-2, then lost, 5-2. Minneapolis turned back St. Paul, 7 to 3, but dropped the nightcap in 10 innings, 6 to 5.

Cardinals Make Late Flag Race

Knock Three Games Off Brooklyn Dodger Lead.

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

AFTER nearly everybody except their relatives had given them up for lost, the St. Louis Cardinals are threatening to make a race of the National league pennant drive.

They still trail the front-running Brooklyn Dodgers by six and a half lengths, but they have knocked three full games off the Dodger lead in the last three days.

With Southpaw Max Lanier hurling seven-hit shutout ball, the Cards ran their latest winning streak to five straight last night by beating the Chicago Cubs and Claude Passeau, 3-0.

The Dodgers were jolted 3-1 by the Phils, the second straight for the Brooks, who have lost five of their last 10 games. The Cardinals have won 10 of their last 12.

Carl Hubbell pitched the New York Giants to a 10-2 triumph over the Boston Braves yesterday as his boss, Mel Ott, chipped in with his 21st home run and took over the leadership of the league.

The Pittsburgh Pirates dropped Cincinnati five games behind the Giants by whitewashing the Reds, 3-0, in a night contest.

In the merican league, the Boston Red Sox ran their winning streak to five games by edging the New York Yankees, 8-7 in 10 innings.

Denny Galehouse turned in a seven-hit shutout in a night contest as the St. Louis Browns whipped the Chicago White Sox, 7-0, and climbed to within a single game of the third-place Cleveland Indians, who were idle.

The Washington Senators came from behind to trip the Philadelphia Athletics, 2-1, in another arc light tilt.

LIKES LOTS OF HEIGHT

CHICAGO — (AP) — Howard Wheeler, Negro golfer who won a $200 prize for being the most interesting golfer in the Tam O' Shanter tourney, teed off from matchbooks because it gave him an extra quarter inch of height.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Beau Jack, 137½, Springfield Mass. knocked out Carmine Fatta 138, New York (1).

NEW YORK — Joey Parlata 134½, Tamaqua Pa., outpointed Quentin (Baby) Breese, 138, Manhattan, Kas. (8).

DAYTON THREATENS CHARLESTON LEAD

DAYTON —(AP)— Dayton meets last-place Zanesville tonight in the first contest of a three-game series, then moves to Charleston to battle the Senators for first place in the Mid-Atlantic league.

The Ducks downed Charleston 14 to 8 last night to move within one and one-half games of the league leaders. Zanesville decisioned Canton 6 to 2 and Springfield defeated Erie 11 to 6 in a game interrupted by a 40-minute blackout in the Pennsylvania City.

Long Bar Wins A-Loop Title

Golf League Winds Up Its Regular Schedule.

News-Journal "A" golf league completed its regular schedule last evening at Possum Run with Long Bar winning the championship by a two-point margin over Richland Printing.

Although a number of postponed matches remain to be played within the next week, they will not change the standing of the two leading teams.

* * *

Long Bar yesterday tied with Club Billiards 1-1, while Barnes & Schmid Tires blanked Richland Printing 3-0. Andregg Billiards defeated Weaver Home Supply 4-1, and Quaker Market defeated Big 3 Beers 1-0.

* * *

Carl Wiseman took medal honors for the day with a one-under-par 35, while Al Hager scored even par, and Joe Mayer and Wayne Anthony had 37's

Two extra-hole matches wound up on the tenth green where Ken Mapes defeated Harry Schlegel, and Frank Jocha won from Tony Schadek.

Jim Bagby Believes He's Still Learning Mound Art

By RAY BLOSSER

CLEVELAND — (Wide World) —Jim Bagby, Jr., would like to duplicate his father's feat of pitching Cleveland to a pennant, but young Jim's best season is just good enough to give the Indians a fine chance for second place.

Things have changed in those 22 years. The New York Yankees were not a super team in 1920; they finished third. Bagby, Sr., hurled 31 victories to give the Tribe its only flag; his tall son figures the Athletics' Phil Marchildon is about the only American league pitcher with a faint chance of reaching the comparatively modest 20-game mark this campaign.

Starting the August stretch drive, young Jim had hurled 11 wins against five losses, some of which were unmerited, and reckons he has reached a peak.

"I'm pitching better and I'm getting breaks that I didn't get in other seasons," says Bagby. "I have better control, have learned the hitters better, and get a chance to start regularly.

* * *

"My first year, with Boston, I had a pretty good fast ball and nothing else. I won 15 games—seven of them as a relief pitcher—and lost 11. But by 1939 the batters had caught on to me."

He won only five games and was shipped to the minors. So he started, at Little Rock, seriously experimenting with the screwball pitch his pappy had taught him, and which was known as the fadeaway when James was born 27 years ago—little more than a stone's throw from the Indians' league park.

It's a hard delivery to master, and injurious to the pitching arm if not done right. The ball spins off the inside of your second finger, and in the case of a right-handed pitcher like Bagby, breaks to the right and down.

"It has to be kept low or it's no good," he has found. "If it comes in high they'll crack it, even if it does break good."

In 1940, Bagby won 10 and dropped 16 with Boston. That winter he came to Cleveland in a six-player trade which started the long-memoried fans drooling with sentiment, for here was young Jim to do it like old Jim, if he could.

Last year, Bagby's record was 10 and 16, but in both those seasons "I pitched better ball than I did my first year. It all adds up to the breaks. If you're lucky you do it, and if you're unlucky you're lousy."

The newest addition of the Bagby victory model has a world of stuff, and mixes traditional fast balls and curves with screwballs and knuckleballs. He uses the knuckler "just enough to let the batters know I have one."

It has zoomed to unusual popularity this year, and Jim feels "it makes a pitcher's other stuff good.

Armory Fistic Show All Set

J. A. C. Attempts Revival of Boxing Here Tonight.

The Junior Association of Commerce is all set to go tonight in its attempt to revive boxing at the Armory with a 32-round card featuring Mansfield's popular Paul Carbetta in the 10-round main bout against Carl Netzel of Cleveland.

A six round semi-final bout and four 4-rounders complete the card. And on the success of tonight's boxing show depends plans for future fight cards to be promoted by the J. A. C.

Dope from Cleveland indicates that Carbetta will have his hands full with Netzel in the top battle. A veteran of 192 amateur bouts in which he won 96 decisions, and of nine professional starts which included seven wins. Netzel has done most of his fighting in the east and particularly in New York state where the picking wasn't soft

Mansfield fans of course are well acquainted with Carbetta's record, his winning of the flyweight championship in the Cleveland Golden Gloves a year ago, his advancement to the finals of the Chicago Mid-west amateurs, and his performance in the national amateurs at Boston. He has won both of his professional starts, one by a knockout.

Grown into the featherweight class, Carbetta retains his ring speed and cleverness, and flashing left hook, and hits harder than he ever did as a flyweight.

The six-round semi-final brings together Lou Lamont of Elyria, a former Cincinnati Golden Gloves champion, and Johnny Dawson of Cleveland, veteran of 18 professional bouts, and with a reputation as a pleasing club fighter.

Two Mt. Vernon fighters have been added to the preliminary card, necessitating a shakeup in the matchmaking.

Speedy Stevens of Mt. Vernon battles the popular Howard Hodges of Marion in the top four-rounder, while Red Beckholt, last seen in the J. A. C. amateur tournament at the high school last winter, takes on the tough Dan Matthews of Columbus.

In other four-rounders, Kenny Krupp, Mansfield high school football and basketball star, tangles with Herm Shocker, amateur veteran soon to enter the army, and Lee Bridges, Mansfield, battles John L. Frazier, also of Mansfield.

The first bout is scheduled for 8:30.

Stranahan Still Leads Tourney

CHICAGO —(U.P.)— Ray Billows, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and Frank Stranahan, Toledo, O., led 16 second round survivors into the third round of the Chicago National amateur golf championships today.

In a double round of elimination yesterday, Billows, the defending champion, eliminated Charles K. Morris, Chicago, 4 and 3 and Harold Foreman, Chicago, 5 and 4. Billows meets John Wagner, Chicago, today.

Stranahan encounters a major test today when he meets Art Doering, Chicago. Doering eliminated Tom Nash, Chicago, 5 and 4, and W. H. Jordan, Warren, O., 4 and 3. Stranahan won his first two matches yesterday from Pat Petti, Evanston, Ill., 5 and 4 and Fred Hawkins, Chicago, 3 and 2.

Pairings Made for N-J City Tennis Tourney

Players Given Through Sunday To Complete First Round Matches

Pairings for the annual News-Journal city tennis tournament, drawn yesterday afternoon, include 48 entries in the five divisions of the tournament, a fine record for a war year in which many of the city's best players are in service or in war work elsewhere.

Both men's and women's singles had almost a full tournament draw, with only two byes in each division in the first round.

Players are given through Sunday for their first round matches, and an effort will be made to keep the tournament schedule running evenly so that championships will be decided over the Labor day week-end.

Because of uncertainty of the weather, players should try to get their matches played off as soon as possible after learning their next opponents, instead of waiting until the deadline day for each round.

Arrangement of time for playing matches is left to the contestants who should make the earliest possible effort to contact their opponents. The players also should arrange to report results of their matches to the News-Journal sports department before 9 o'clock of the following morning.

Woodland players meeting in preliminary rounds may play their matches on their home court, and also may meet other opponents at Woodland if it is agreeable with these opponents. Otherwise all matches will be played at Maple Lake courts.

First round pairings:

MEN'S SINGLES

Lowell Bourns, bye; Jim Rakestraw vs. Don Pluck; Chuck Franzen vs. Joe Deyarmon; Sam Cambell vs. Gene Rudolph; Watty Slabaugh vs. R. E. June; Joe Massa vs. M. L. Stearns; Vic Alderson vs. Louis Palmer; Bob Enos, bye.

WOMEN'S SINGLES

MEN'S DOUBLES

Enos-Gadfield, bye; Pluck-Rakestraw vs. Deyarmon-Seymour; Franzen-C. Cambell vs. Sam Cambell-Isaly; Bourns-Slabaugh, bye.

BOYS' SINGLES

Norman Wilcox vs. Robert Black, jr.; Charles Anderson vs. George Perman; Robert Terman vs. John M Butler; Denny Landon vs. John Schwarz.

GIRLS' SINGLES

Mary Gregoria, bye; Christine Schwarz vs. Betty Wentz; Lois Casto vs. Florence Walters; Meredith Fisher, bye.

Nelson Leads In Ohio Open

Shoots Seven Birdies In Row For New Record.

By FRITZ HOWELL

CLEVELAND—(AP)—"Lord Byron" Nelson, Toledo Inverness pro, almost had a strangle hold on his third straight Ohio Open golf championship today, after tearing 10 strokes off par in the first 36 of the 72-hole medal play test yesterday at Mayfield Country club.

While most of the other pros and amateurs in the field of 70 had trouble over the rugged layout, Nelson turned in two of the best rounds of his career.

* * *

He hit the turn with seven birdies in a row for a 29 on the first nine in the morning, snared an eagle on the 18th for a 63, eight under par, and then, after losing a stroke to par on the first nine in the afternoon, had six threes on the last nine for a 69.

* * *

The 132 total, second lowest 36-hole score of his career, gave him a five stroke lead over sensational Herman Keiser of Akron, who roared back with a 67 in the afternoon after a morning round of 70.

Nelson's 63 erased the course record of 67 set several years ago by Maurice McCarthy of Cincinnati, three-time state amateur king.

In third place, 11 strokes back with totals of 143, were Al Espinosa of Akron and Phil Perkins of Cleveland, each a former winner of the state championship. Rod Munday, the Toledo star, was next with 148. Tied at 147 were such stars as Lloyd Gullickson of Canton, 1935 winner; Billy Burke of Cleveland, champion in 1938 and 1939 and National Open victor in 1931, and Joe Novick of Cleveland.

Joe Fogg, jr., of Cleveland, paced the simon pure contingent with 150, or 18 strokes off the pace.

An all-time low record for smallpox in the United States was established in 1941, when only 1,432 cases were reported in the entire country.

NO HOT BATHS AFTER 8 P. M.

That's To Be Rule for Residents of New York City.

NEW YORK—(INS)—New Yorkers must struggle along for the duration of the war with less hot water for bathing, shaving and dish washing Mayor F. H. LaGuardia has advised

Because of the fuel shortage in the east, the mayor said, apartment house tenants will be given hot water only between 6.30 and 9 a. m. and 5 and 8 p. m.

RAILS MARK UP NEW GAINS IN MARKET DEALS

Santa Fe Reaches Best Level Since 1937; Bank Credit For War Effort Helped.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — The recently buoyant rails registered new gains in today's early market dealings as other key groups moved indecisively.

Santa Fe at the opening pushed up a major fraction to its best level since 1937. Moderately ahead were N. Y. Central, Northern Pacific, Woolworth and United Airlines. Goodrich recorded a fractional dip.

Financial circles studied the implication of the federal reserve board's authorization of a reduction in member bank reserve requirements in New York and Chicago.

The cut in each city was to 24 per cent of net demand deposits from 26 per cent, respective Aug. 20. It was figured the action would release about $400,000,000 of new bank credit for the war effort but banking authorities suggested the amount involved was too small to have appreciable bearing on government borrowing plans.

THEATERS

Jam Session.

No less than 15 name bands set the audience's toes a-tapping in "Syncopation," the Ohio attraction, headlined by Adolphe Menjou. Jackie Cooper and Bonita Granville. They range from Benny Goodman's aggregation to Alvino Rey's orchestra and the 60-piece symphony assembled to play Leith Stevens' "American Rhapsody." Stevens scored the picture that concerns the story of an aristocratic southerner in Chicago and his daughter who sets out to crusade for freer rhythms in the dance band field. Menjou plays the southerner.

Martin Orchestra.

An ex-hoofer falls heir to a dance band booking agency that has been turned into a shake-down racket in "The Mayor of 44th Street," at the Madison. When he gets the business on a legitimate footing the gangsters muscle in. George Murphy and Anne Shirley top the cast that features Freddy Martin's orchestra. The latter supplies Tschaikowsky's B flat minor piano concerto as a musical background and presents several other numbers. "Powder Town," with Victor McLaglen, Edmond O'Brien and June Havoc is the second attraction.

Domestic Comedy.

Love's young dream comes in for some hilarious complications in "This Time for Keeps," the Ritz comedy featuring Ann Rutherford and Robert Sterling. The plot revolves around a pair of newlyweds who face the traditional in-law situation and a series of other first-year events that act as stumbling blocks to marital bliss. Guy Kibbee and Irene Rich are among the players. Counter-espionage furnishes action in "Unseen Enemy," the second film, with Leo Carrillo and Irene Hervey.

Alaskan Saga.

Rex Beach's saga of the Klondyke, "The Spoilers," continues at the Park with John Wayne, Randolph Scott and Marlene Dietrich supplying the action. Miss Dietrich appears as the seductive Cherry Malotte over whom two men fight to the death. Margaret Lindsay, Harry Carey and Richard Barthelmess are in the picture. Tom Brown has the lead in "Hello Annapolis," the second picture.
